

Victoria Ticket Draws Favorite

An unidentified Victoria resident has drawn an Irish sweepstakes ticket on the 10-to-one favorite in next Wednesday's race.

The Victoria who bought his ticket under the pseudonym Kahloke—the name of one of the B.C. government ministers—is one of six Canadians whose tickets were drawn on Hidden Meaning, favored to win next Wednesday's Cambridgehire stakes at Newmarket, England.

In all 11 Vancouver Island residents hold Irish sweepstakes tickets drawn during two days, ending last night.

Mrs. Lorraine Gordon of 3209 Doncaster, Saanich, yesterday said she has never bought a sweepstakes ticket before.

SHARING TICKET

She said she is sharing her ticket with her recently married daughter in Kelowna "because she got it for me."

Her ticket was drawn on My Bewitched, for which no odds were listed.

Other holders of tickets drawn yesterday were Bill Zimmerman of the Comox district, whose ticket is on Redoubt, and Eric Dilleston, Saanichton, whose ticket is on Pagan Prayer.

WHICH VICTORIA?

Two other Victoria residents entered under pseudonyms. Bee Jay holds a ticket on Smuggler's Joy and Murray holds one on Uncle Percy. (Murray didn't designate the province and could conceivably be from Victoria, N.B., P.E.I., or Nfld.)

Monaco Border Closed In Brief French Test

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI)—The French government, angered by Monaco's adamant stand against paying taxes to France, threw a customs barrier around this princely principality at midnight Friday but withdrew it 30 minutes later.

There was no immediate explanation for the sudden turnabout by French officials. However, one unconfirmed report said France had decided to impose the short customs blockade as a test-run for further harassment if the Monegasques continue to oppose French tax demands.

A heavy rain and the audaciousness with which French customs men shut off the border led to long lines of cars on both sides of the frontier.

When French officials asked "what have you got to declare?" they heard a stock answer from many drivers: "Box of matches, a handkerchief, a beer."

Prince Rainier arrived here only moments before from Paris where last-ditch talks had been held between the two sides.

The sunny seaside centre attracts thousands of tourists annually. Scores of international concerns have established "headquarters" there to escape French taxes.

Peace Plea Voiced

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Pope John XXIII appealed Friday to world leaders to "save the world's peace."

The pontiff made the plea in a speech to statesmen from 35 nations gathered for a special audience on the second day of the Roman Catholic Church's 21st ecumenical council.

TIME FOR ACTION

Pope John, speaking in French, said heads of state should continue to meet each other for conciliatory talks aimed at "just and generous agreements."

He said it "is time that something decisive was done" to bring about "the great peace that all men are waiting for and for which they have suffered so much."

The present council, expected to last two years, would help

GALE SPLINTERS MARS BOMBER

Power Failures Over Wide Area

A giant Martin Mars water bomber was ripped from its steel mooring cables at Patricia Bay airport, hurled 200 yards and pounded to pieces by a gale which howled across southern Vancouver Island late last night.

The southeast gale with gusts screaming to a near-record 89 miles an hour, clawed the giant four-engined aircraft loose from eight heavy steel cables which had been installed as a safety measure.

Flying Tankers Ltd., engineers told The Daily Colonist early this morning that the huge aircraft was—for all practical purposes—a total wreck.

"The ship's a washout," said engineer James Hunter from Patricia Bay control tower as the wind continued to shriek outside. "It is a $300,000 loss."

PLAN TO CONVERT

Flying Tankers had planned to convert the giant Second World War plane for use in forest fire bombing. One Mars, already converted, was safely moored at a mainland airfield.

South along the Nanaimo Peninsula and into Victoria, meanwhile, frantic police and emergency crews were busy attempting to untangle the snarl of uprooted trees, twisted wires and paralyzed communications left in the wake of the gale.

ALL DISTRICTS

At the height of the storm, power crews in the Greater Victoria area were trying to cope with isolated power failures occurring in virtually all districts at once.

The gale blew in two huge show windows at Eaton's at View and Douglas, sending glass fragments and Christmas toys flying into the street.

DUMMIES IN STREET

One of the windows blew out at about 10:45 p.m. and the other followed a few minutes later, causing dummies to sail into the street and blowing leaves off an imitation tree.

Power blackouts were reported in several districts.

Storm Takes 21 Lives

By CANADIAN PRESS

A devastating storm slammed the Pacific coast Friday night, spreading death and destruction over hundreds of miles.

Seven persons died in Oregon, six were known dead in California, one was dead in Washington State and four others were killed in an auto accident which may have resulted from the storm and two died as a direct result of the storm in British Columbia.

A third British Columbia death—that of 70-year-old retired fireman, Harry Young—was indirectly attributed to the blow. He died of a heart attack while repairing a damaged television set on the roof of his home.

KILLED IN PARK

Late Friday night a man was killed in Vancouver's Stanley Park when winds blew a tree down and it crushed a car travelling on the causeway from the Lions Gate Bridge.

The man's identity was not immediately available. During Thursday's storm chartered accountant Francis Copithorne, 50, stepped on a live wire while investigating storm damage behind his Vancouver home. He was electrocuted.

EMERGENCY

Portland, Oregon's largest city, was virtually paralyzed and Governor Mark Hatfield called a state of emergency, ordering out the National Guard.

In Seattle, World's Fair officials closed the Exposition at 9:15 p.m. as winds up to 57 miles an hour whistled through the grounds.

Gusts up to 75 miles an hour hit Aberdeen, Longview, Tacoma and Bremerton in Washington.

MOON ONLY LIGHT

Damage at Longview was reported as extensive. A reporter said hardly a tree was left standing in the city. Dozens of parked cars were damaged but few houses were hit.

Longview hospitals were operating on emergency power and called in extra nurses and doctors to care for the injured. "The only light in town comes from the moon," the Longview reporter said.

FEBRILE WALTER

City light officials at Tacoma described the storm as the worst to hit the city since 1930. Some nearby communities were totally dark and power interruptions occurred frequently throughout the city.

Trees littered the Grays Harbor area and utility lines

Railway, Brotherhood Will Resume Parleys

MONTREAL (CP)—The CPR and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (BRTM) under the urging of Labor Minister Starr, Friday night agreed to resume talks aimed at averting a system-crippling walkout Oct. 23.

The two parties are expected to get together next Monday morning although there was no official announcement on the time or place.

The labor minister was reported to have urged both sides to get back to the bargaining table and stay there until the dispute is settled.

He was reported to have called for top-level negotiations.

Both parties announced acceptance of the minister's plea a few hours after they received it.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has told Britain that the U.S. cannot prevent anti-Castro shipping raids which might jeopardize British ships in the Cuban trade.

A British statement of concern has brought an American response which seemed, in some respects, to say that the British ships could only proceed in the Cuban trade at their own risk.

RAISED BY EMBASSY

State department press officer Lincoln White said the matter had been raised with the department by the British embassy.

basay here in connection with said officially that it "would the attack some weeks ago by take a serious view of any at a Cuban exile group on several ships, including the British vessel Newlane.

A Cuban exile group calling itself Alpha 66 claimed it carried out the attacks, and said it has headquarters in Puerto Rico.

NO U.S. SUPPORT

"The British were assured," White said, "that these attacks (specifically the raid on shipping when the Newlane was hit) do not have the sanction of the United States government."

White said, however, that "Cubans reside at many places all around the Caribbean, and the United States cannot assume responsibility for acts initiated by Cuban exiles who have left from points not under United States jurisdiction."

The British government has

Algeria Backs Castro Regime

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Newly independent Algeria yesterday backed Cuban premier Fidel Castro's regime and warned the United States that any attempt to overthrow it would be "dangerous for world peace."

Algeria's position was outlined in a major foreign policy speech by Foreign Minister Mohammed Khemisti. He was the first non-Communist speaker to back the Castro regime publicly in the United Nations General Assembly.

He spoke only three days after Premier Ahmed Ben Bella, who has been lionized socially by the Communist and other delegations here, affirmed Algerian neutrality as the country became the 109th UN member.

Ben Bella will see President Kennedy in Washington Monday and will go to Havana later in the week to meet Castro. Castro sent a goodwill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A state department official said Friday night that Cuba is costing Russia $1,000,000 a day.

Elwin M. Martin, assistant secretary of state for Inter-American Affairs, said this is the rough value of economic and military goods Russia now is sending Cuba above what Russia is getting back.

'No Use Sending Dead Daddy'

Non-Swimming Officer Unable to Save Child

TORONTO (CP)—A seven-year-old girl was drowned in Lake Ontario Thursday night as a policeman stood by helplessly, unable to give aid because he couldn't swim.

Michele Bredin, who had fallen into seven feet of water with her brother, Michael, 10, went under as Const. Gerald Switzer arrived at the scene in response to cries for help. Michael swam to safety.

"I can't swim," the constable said. "I've got three kiddies, too. It's no use sending home a dead daddy."

The constable had stopped his cruiser at the waterfront in east-end Toronto to make an entry in his log.

"I'd seen both of them playing two or three minutes earlier," he said. "I was sitting in the car writing when I heard the boy's cries for help. I ran along the weir and saw her floundering and then there was a circle in the water where she went down."

Const. Switzer ran to his cruiser and radioed for help. Harbor police recovered the girl's body.

Michele and her brother often played at the waterfront. They fell from a breakwater which stretches 50 feet into the lake.

Americans Take Over Kremlin—Shooting Begins!

By PETER DEMPSON
Third of a Series

MOSCOW — Even in the Kremlin, the heart of Moscow and the Soviet Union, the United States wields a lot of influence—despite the ideological differences between East and West.

Four Canadian newspapermen, myself included, discovered this with considerable annoyance when we tried to gain admittance to the Presdium, where the Supreme Soviet (USSR Parliament) meets. The sittings had been adjourned until fall.

A burly Russian guard met us at the door. "You can't come in," he told us through an interpreter. "The Americans have taken over the building for a few days. Come back later."

A series of questions brought forth this information:

The National Broadcasting Co. had obtained permission to make a film in the Kremlin entitled, The Kremlin Today and in the Future. Television cameras had been set up all through the ancient building. No one was to be permitted to enter the Presidium, until the filming had been completed.

The remainder of the Kremlin, however, was not closed to us. Along with thousands of other tourists, we tramped the 64 acres, where the most ancient relics of Russian history and culture have been preserved.

It was inside the Kremlin walls that Moscow came into being eight centuries ago. It is at the confluence of the Moskva River and its tributary, the Neglinka.

The old wooden stockade was replaced in the 15th century by massive red brick walls.

The Kremlin is a complex of palaces and churches in which Vladimir Ilyich Lenin, founder of the Soviet Communist state, ruled with a mailed fist in his

Union Under Fire For Cockpit Case

MIAMI (UPI)—U.S. federal aviation administrator Najeeb Halaby charged Friday a minority of flight engineers have sacrificed public confidence in U.S. airlines "for the expedient of a last-ditch weapon in a bitter labor dispute."

PILOTS SLEEP

Halaby referred to the recent release of pictures showing pilots asleep, reading or letting stewardesses fly airliners. Subsequent testimony before a Congressional subcommittee by flight engineers and former stewardesses claimed lax cockpit conditions are the rule, not the exception.

The FAA chief pledged a thorough investigation of the charges and punishment of any pilot who has "roofed off" on duty. But he said the public should not be misled into believing most pilots wink at safety rules.

"The record proves public trust in air travel today is well-placed," Halaby declared.

He said the flight engineers union claimed the controversial photographs were taken in the interest of air safety but withheld for fear of reprisal.

"This would seem to indicate a minority of flight engineers in fact had less concern for the public safety than their own," Halaby added.

"So they have raised the question of whether they were willing to sacrifice public confidence in American aviation for the expedient of a last-ditch weapon in a bitter labor battle."

Halaby referred to the fight over whether a flight engineer or a pilot-trained flight engineer should be the third man in jet crews. Several presidential commissions have ruled in favor of a third pilot.

Pacific Test Area Ordered Widened

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Friday ordered an increase in the size of its Johnston Island test area in the Pacific in preparation for a new atmosphere nuclear blast.

The action has no direct connection with the high altitude test scheduled Sunday or Monday. The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said the size and shape of the danger area is being extended because of possible damage to the eyes of those on the surface or in airplanes within that zone.

Names in the News

A Royal Wedding?

LONDON—Rumors have revived that King Olav V, 56, of Norway, who will pay a state visit to Scotland next week, may marry Princess Marina of Kent, 55, whose husband died in a wartime plane crash.

The two spent much time together in Amsterdam last May as guests at a royal wedding. King Olav's wife, Crown Princess Martha, died in 1954, three years before he succeeded to the throne.

Other reports here say Princess Marina's daughter, Princess Alexandra, might wed Olav's son, Crown Prince Harald.

NEW YORK—A telephoned death threat against President Kennedy led to a special police alert at the Manhattan end of the Lincoln Tunnel under the Hudson River. The anonymous call said "the president will be blasted" there.

LONDON—The Lord Chamberlain, Britain's stage censor, banned from a forthcoming British revue a sketch about Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy. Actress Mollie Lester was to have impersonated her. No reason was given.

MIAMI—The Cuban families committee said after a conference with New York attorney James Donovan it was optimistic of "definite success" in negotiations with Fidel Castro for release of Cuban invasion prisoners.

HONG KONG—Sarah de Vloo, 23, Canadian school teacher who was asked to leave Ceylon late in September, went into hiding here. Earlier in Singapore she repeated her charge she was "kicked out" of Ceylon by the government "because I resisted loathsome, immoral, persistent advances by a member of Parliament and some other government officials."

NEW YORK—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt quietly celebrated her 78th birthday at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital where she is recovering from a lung infection.

VANCOUVER — Trudy Burns, 28, and Patricia Butler, 25, who testified they bought their narcotics in quantity to take advantage of a special sale, were acquitted on a charge of possessing drugs for the purpose of trafficking, but were convicted on the lesser charge of possession of narcotics.

NEW YORK—Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., 64, great-grandson of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, was reported resting comfortably in hospital after special surgery for an undisclosed ailment.

VANCOUVER — Australian hypnotist Peter Beven was given 14 days to appear on a charge of bringing a woman against him by jeweler Jack Alexander Waters, who is suing for recovery of a $47,000 home he sold the entertainer last May.

SHANNON—Dromoland Castle — one of Ireland's stately homes — has been sold to Bernard McDonough of Parkersburg, W. Va. He plans to turn it into a hotel with an 18-hole golf course.

PHOENIX — Escaped trunk murderer Wm. Keith Judd, falling to heed pleas of friends that she surrender, continues to elude police after her seventh flight from the Arizona State mental hospital.

TORONTO — Norwegian seaman Reider Holje, who had jumped ship, pulled a gun and killed himself in Don Jail moments before guards were to search him.

VANCOUVER — Rat exterminator John Hunter Young, 40, was too quick on the trigger. He saw a rat in a garbage area but his exterminating gun went off as he was pulling it out of the holster. Result: an arm injury.

OTTAWA — The Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament has urged Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the 10 provincial premiers to proclaim the week of Nov. 5 to 11 as "peace week" in Canada.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. — Premier Walter Shaw is expected to return to his office Monday. He has been absent since undergoing surgery in mid-August.

NEW YORK—Actress Joan Morgan McKay, 43, was found dead in her apartment, an apparent suicide from a possible overdose of an unknown drug, possibly sleeping pills.

JAKARTA — Indonesia's President Sukarno and visiting President Gheorghiu-Dej of Romania backed Soviet demands for conversion of West Berlin into a "free, neutral and demilitarized" city. They also called for the end of "foreign interference or threat" to Cuba.

EDMONTON — Mrs. Elsie McEvoy, a Hinton, Alta., housewife, was honored by the Carnegie hero fund commission for her courage in rescuing a six-year-old boy from the clutches of a starved cougar last spring.

Britain Sells New Jets To Africa

LONDON (AP)—The British government has approved the sale of 15 of its nuclear-strike Blackburn Buccaneer jet aircraft to South Africa. The action is sure to provoke strong criticism from critics of South African racial segregation policies here and abroad.

The deal was announced by the Hawker Siddeley Aviation Co. Industry sources said it involved a cost of about $20,000,000.

India Will Drive Out Reds

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The Indian government has ordered its troops to drive Communist Chinese forces out of northeast India, Prime Minister Nehru announced Friday.

His announcement came in the wake of the largest Sino-Indian frontier battle since the border clashes between the two nations began three years ago.

An Indian external affairs ministry spokesman said the Chinese suffered about 100 casualties in the battle Wednesday during which six Indian soldiers were killed and 11 were wounded.

In his statement, Nehru said the Chinese were "a menace to us" and there appeared to be no chance of talks on the border dispute "so long as this aggression is continuing."

He said he would leave it to his military leaders to set a date for the campaign.

Two Chinese notes to India were published in Peking Friday protesting against an Indian attack on the Chedong area and an alleged intrusion into Tibet by an Indian plane.

India published a note to China demanding the withdrawal of her troops and claiming the Chinese government would be "entirely responsible" for whatever consequences may follow from their failure to withdraw.

Seed of Suspicion

CAPTAIN ANDERS LUNDQVIST, the pilot of the United Nations aircraft which was shot down over Katanga last month with the loss of two crew members, has accused the UN of suppressing the truth about the incident.

Earlier this week Capt. Lundqvist publicly stated that his plane was brought down by troops of the central government of the Congo Republic. "It is inconceivable," he said, "that the UN does not want to tell the truth."

The pilot's charges, backed by the surviving crewmen, throw into sharp perspective the tangled mess of politics in which the UN has become involved since it began its operations in The Congo two years ago.

If, as Capt. Lundqvist hints, the United Nations have deliberately held back this vital information, an immediate explanation should be demanded by the UN General Assembly of Acting Secretary-General U Thant, and his representative in The Congo.

It is significant that the first official UN reports of the shooting implied that the plane had been brought down by either Katanga forces or rebel tribesmen in the area. Conjecture throughout the world was allowed to run unabated along these lines and UN authorities did little to correct the impression—even, apparently, after the facts became known to them.

It may be supposed that this may have suited the purpose of the UN Congo command which has now allied itself to the Central Congolese government in its Katanga campaign. It is only recently, in fact, that Central Congolese forces have been accepted as part of the UN force in the area.

In keeping the truth hidden—if it is indeed the truth—the UN might have done itself a great and irretrievable disservice. Embarrassing and tragic as the incident may have been, it would have been better to have made a clean breast of it. As every veteran who ever served in the front line will know, such accidents in time of battle often occur.

Whatever the truth of the matter, a dangerous seed of suspicion against the UN Congo operation has now been sown in ground which, unfortunately, may prove all too fertile.

Both Wrong

ONE OF THE resolutions to be submitted to the annual convention of the B.C. School Trustees' Association next week in Victoria calls for abolition of the right of municipal councils to review and demand arbitration of school budgets.

The resolution contends that school boards are elected to manage school districts, that the taxpayers' interests are safeguarded by the department of education, and that councils have not the time or knowledge to judge education budgets.

Some municipal spokesmen in the province have retorted that as long as municipalities have the duty to collect school taxes, they must also scrutinize the boards' spending plans and be prepared to argue over any expenses that may appear unjustified, and that they would be happy for the boards to have complete control of their budgets if they also would take over the levying and collection of the taxes.

The proposers of the resolution and the proponents of the boards taking over taxation powers both, surely, will impress the public as more concerned with avoiding criticism than interested in the taxpayers' welfare.

If school trustees are irritated when councils—not too frequently—find fault with the budgets to which they have devoted so much unpaid time and thought, that is understandable. But why else deprive those who pay the local part of the education bill of protection against the possibility, even if remote, of a board going overboard on luxury expenditures not shared by the education department?

Municipal councils, on the other hand, are subjected to some thoughtless blame when their tax-rate totals are driven up by school costs; to seek to be rid of the whole business is understandable on their part too from this point of view.

But the establishment of a tax department in every school board office would be an unnecessary expense and an added burden for the ratepayers. It certainly would benefit no one but the relieved aldermen and councillors.

The public interest thus would best be served if the trustees were to put aside their resolution and the council members likewise were to accept the present situation as a necessary tribulation.

Vulgar Jokes Out

THE ISLE OF MAN in Britain and Victoria in Canada have something in common. They are both desirable spots to live in and they each make considerable money out of their tourist trade.

Also in common is the attitude of the local governing authorities. The House of Keys, which administers for the people of Man and the city council which watchdogs the city of Victoria both object to obscene or indecent literature.

The House of Keys rules that merchants in Manxland may not offer or expose for sale postcards which are vulgar or indecent. And this may in some way soften the blow for the local newspaper operator who was recently fined for vending a novel that was held in court to be obscene.

But the Isle of Man goes even further. The Manx government also bans postcards which make jokes about landlords or persons, innocuous though they may be.

As boarding houses with their landlords probably form the main industry of the Isle of Man it is politically understandable that they should have been given legal protection against comic postcard charges of rapacity or low calorie catering.

The protection of the cloth is also explainable because the Isle of Man has its own independent Manx Church, governed by its own laws. The church apparently, like the landlady, appears to have influence at the House of Keys.

One wonders if Victoria may not be missing a bet. In addition to keeping Victoria mentally pure, our city council might see fit to ban contentious cartoons of tweedy-seedy long muffled Oak Bay types; of somnolent scenes inside the hallowed walls of the Union Club, or even to restrict vulgar lampooning of our darling seagulls.

After all we too have a reputation to keep up.

"Whatever will they think of next?"

Over Economic Ills

A Rising Storm in Scotland

By NEAL ARCHERSON from London

THERE is fear in Scotland—an old fear—and with it a strange mood of restlessness and excitement. The massive, arthritic Scottish economy has begun to run down faster than it can be renewed, but at the same time there is a rising storm of argument about basic causes and cures which has spread to the man in the street and brought into question the powers and duties of a government which lives in London.

By next January, there will probably be 120,000 unemployed in Scotland, 5.6 per cent of the total work force. The country has, of course, known worse times—in the 30s, the percentage hung between 15 per cent and an unbelievable 30 per cent—but angry Scots now feel that the prosperity of Britain as a whole has reached a high water mark and sunk away from it again without affecting the fundamental ills of Scottish life.

In Scotland, your life is shorter, you live in a smaller and more crowded space, you are paid less, you are sicker than if you worked in England. And, above all, you have less chance of staying in work.

When Scotland joined England in the Union of 1707, her leaders thought that the loss of political independence was a fair price to pay for the prosperity which amalgamation would bring. For about 200 years, the investment paid off. Then, about 50 years ago, the great industrial belt which had grown up across the waist of Scotland from Clyde to Forth began to show signs of decrepitude.

Scottish industry was too massive, too concentrated on 18th century products like pig-iron, steam boilers and coal, but two world wars in which the Clyde served as Britain's arsenal and armory preserved this increasingly antiquated structure long after it should have begun to diversify. For half a century, Scotland has presented the picture of a chronically depressed industrial scene, in which growth has been absent or insignificantly slow and unemployment a recurrent plague.

What can be done? The policy of post-war British governments is now seen to have failed. The Local Employment Act designated various depressed areas and subsidized new industry which settled in them, but made the mistake of treating unemployment as if it were a disease in itself—not a symptom. Any old factory is bowed hastily into these areas; employment figures rise; the state shuts up its assistance to industries settling in the new towns and centres of fresh growth. The government, while accepting a few minor proposals, has stuffed this report in a pigeonhole. In the first place, it means spending far more money, and, anyway, pessimistic official experts admit that even the Scottish Council's suggestions do not go far enough.

Last year, the Scottish Council—an unofficial board of enlightened but far from socialist business men—produced a report in which they called on the government to help Scotland's economy back to lasting health by stepping up its assistance to industries settling in the new towns and centres of fresh growth.

Meanwhile, the Scottish Trades Union Congress and elements within the Scottish Labor Party are calling for outright "direction of industry." At present, the Board of Trade guides employers in a negative way by granting them a certificate for new development only in certain areas. This is a feeble weapon, and the advent of the Common Market will make it still less effective when an industrialist can site his new factory in Italy or Belgium and cock a snook at the board's offer of a free ticket to Scotland.

If Labor wins the next general election, Mr. Hugh Gaitskell would certainly not accept Scottish appeals for "direction of industry"; the idea of company chairmen speaking blustering speeches from the prisoner's dock about personal liberty is enough to make his politician's blood run cold. Labor has, however, stated that it might nationalize any company operating against the national interest, and that might conceivably be stretched to include firms which refused to move where they were needed.

The problem remains. For their part, the Scottish people are voting not only for the Labor opposition, but increasingly for Scottish Nationalist candidates. At the recent election in West Lothian, the Conservative lost his deposit and the Nationalist collected nearly 9,000 votes, and another poll was expected to repeat this pattern. This may be mere exasperation, rather than a serious political change of view, but it does suggest that Scots see no hope in the programs of either major party.

But the Common Market, if Britain enters, may help. Although it will probably damage Scotland's less competitive industries, the European economic Community has embarked on comparative regional development studies—of underdeveloped areas like Southern Italy or malarious industrial belts like the Walloon country in Belgium—and may soon offer powerful centralized sources of aid and investment. This may save a British government of the future from the apparent Scottish alternatives: Direction or Decay.

Soviet Military Quarrel of government, his strategic nuclear reserves, and his principal troop concentrations.

It goes without saying that there is no room in this doctrine for any distinctions between the uses of strategic and tactical nuclear weapons.

The writers of Military Strategy go even further and argue that the Soviet Union should cast off all inhibitions and make full military use of its superiority in outer space.

The spokesman of the conventional forces thus seeks to cast a slur on the "political reliability" of the nuclear-bellie strategists.

On the other hand, Military Strategy is being presented to readers as "the first important work in strategic doctrine to appear in the U.S.S.R. since 1926."

The date is not chosen at random; and the introduction is far more than a piece of publicity—it is a political challenge.

What it means is that since Trotsky's resignation from the commissariat of defence, in 1925, Soviet strategic thinking has been virtually at a standstill. This is not a notion Khrushchev and the men around him are prepared to accept—not even in their most exuberant moods of de-Stalinization. Yet this evidence is what "advanced" thinkers in the Soviet armed forces feel about the matter.

The inter-service quarrel must be quite intense and bitter, if issues of party orthodoxy are brought into it. And intense must also be the scramble for budgetary allocations, which is understandable enough in view of the strains to which the Soviet economy is subjected just now.

Imbalance Increases

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE impression in the Common Market capitals is strong that for some time Europe and America have been, as it were, out of phase. While the American diplomatic-information apparatus has grown larger and more pervasive it speaks from a distant past to Europeans living in a quite different present.

What was valid in the relationship a decade ago, when the vast beneficence of the Marshall Plan had begun to transform the old Europe, is no longer meaningful. America has not struck a reckoning with a Europe boldly experimenting with new economic and political combinations transcending the dogmas that still govern much of America's thinking. Whether out of timidity and bureaucratic habit or merely inertia, America repeats the old familiar prescriptions.

But a more obvious reason for the dislocation is in the growing awareness on both sides of the Atlantic of how disproportionately the burden of the security of the West is shared. The imbalance increases as Europe's economy advances and the American economy stagnates. This can have serious consequences for the alliance unless more drastic steps are quickly taken to cure it.

Informed Europeans are concerned over the imbalance and how disruptive it is bound to be. Yet they resent prodding to carry more of the load. One of the tough, knowledgeable young Germans who, beneath the surface of political intrigue in Bonn, really runs the German state put it this way:

"We know you have far more than your share. With 180,000,000 people you carry 80 per cent of the load. With 200,000,000 people in Europe we have 20 per cent. It is unfair."

The disproportionate burden carried by the United States would not matter so much if the American economy were moving forward with the steady and seemingly sure progress of Europe. This is the crux of the matter. While Europe must do far more—militarily and in other kinds of help to underdeveloped countries—the two continents must persist so long as the American lag continues.

For this same lag produces the consequences that make it difficult for the United States to enter into a vital, competitive relationship with the new Europe. Even with the far-reaching new trade act the pressure will be strong to protect not only carpets and glass but a host of other products. With unemployment between 5½ and 6 per cent the demand will be to save American jobs by protecting the American market.

Profound adjustments must take place. Idle men must be retrained and helped to find work in industries truly competitive with Europe. The tax structure must be scaled down and radically reshaped to give new incentives to investors and consumers. This means a viable government with the authority and imagination to employ the economic tools that have helped to set the European economy in motion.

What is the penalty if all this does not happen? The new European market rapidly coming into being with an unprecedented productive and consuming power can be denied to American exporters. Equally important American industry will be severely handicapped in other markets.

Increasingly, unless it is prevented by the kind of laws abhorrent to free enterprise, American capital will invest in European plants. Ford in Germany has just brought out a new car selling for about $1,500 that promises to give the German-owned Volkswagen stiff competition. But it does not make jobs in Detroit.

This is the certain prospect—certain, that is, unless by accident or rash miscalculation the catastrophe of war is set off. And here, too, Europe and America seem out of phase.

Europeans think rash American action against Cuba would give Khrushchev his opening at Berlin. From the European perspective the small island of Cuba, even though it is a Communist satellite reinforced with arms from Moscow, appears as about as great a threat to America's security as does one lonely Negro seeking entrance to the University of Mississippi seem a threat to the American social structure.

Recent events have not enhanced the impression of a wise and mature nation wisely using its great power. On both sides of the Atlantic there is much to be learned about the relationship between the new Europe and an America still largely unaware of the radical alteration across the Atlantic. And the time for learning is short.

Harassed Speaker Plans Guideposts For Troubled MPs

OTTAWA (CP) — Commons Speaker Marcel Lambert was twice threatened Friday with appeals against his rulings.

Any such appeal would require a Commons vote on whether to uphold the Speaker's ruling. However, such a vote would not necessarily involve victory or defeat for the minority Progressive Conservatives unless the administration chose to declare it a vote of confidence.

There was no indication the government would so declare. The Speaker has been challenged repeatedly by opposition members who have become restive under his strict enforcement of Commons rules during the daily question period.

He brought on more opposition protests Friday by ruling out of order two questions dealing with the unemployment insurance fund.

Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena), whose question was disallowed, said that if Speaker Lambert persists on his present course, "I have no other recourse than to appeal the ruling and to have the House make a decision with respect to it."

Mr. Howard repeated the threat after the Speaker said he will make a statement, probably Tuesday, on what he considers should be the "guideposts" for the question period.

Appeals against rulings of the chair are not uncommon in the Commons.

However, Hon. Roland Michener, Speaker of the last two Parliaments, had only one ruling appealed during his 1957-62 tenure; a near-perfect record unmatched for some 40 years. He was upheld.

"MANY NEW TWISTS"

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre), an acknowledged expert on Commons procedure, said Speaker Lambert has introduced "too many new twists, new interpretations" into the rules governing the question period. The period was "fast becoming a contest between members and the chair."

Speaker Lambert, 43-year-old Conservative MP for Edmonton West, said he realizes there has been a change in approach to the question period but a contest was the "last thing" he wanted.

He said the orderly conduct of business is as much a responsibility of members as of the Speaker "and I bespeak their co-operation."

Mr. Fisher proposed to have the changes made by a body "independent of the Parliament of Canada."

Government's legislation in this field will be debated Monday or Tuesday. This bill would have a new commission report its recommendations to Parliament.

Large Union Group Opposes Socreds

MONTREAL (CP)—The 110,000-man Confederation of National Trade Unions will campaign among its members urging them to oppose Social Credit, president Jean Marchand said Friday.

He said the decision was taken because Social Credit is anti-union. He said he doesn't believe Social Credit will repeat its victories of the June 18 election.

Norris Calls New Probe

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice T. C. Norris, acting in his capacity as a one-man public inquirer into Great Lakes shipping disruptions, Friday called a special meeting for Ottawa Monday to get the facts of the latest holdup.

TUG RAILORS

Mr. Justice Norris said from his home here that he called the special meeting following complaints by the Canadian Shipping Federation that tug sailors belonging to the Seafarers International Union refused to handle a freighter in Montreal Harbor.

He said the complaint was that the sailors refused to put lines aboard the freighter Red Wing, owned by the Upper Lakes Shipping Limited of Toronto.

GET TO BOTTOM

The judge said he called the meeting after he failed to persuade SIU President Hal C. Banks to call off the boycott. He said the special meeting will get to the bottom of the dispute.

Export Help Backed

OTTAWA (CP) — Approval was signified Friday by all three opposition parties for doubling—to $400,000,000—the ceiling on government insurance to exporters on abnormally large wheat, machinery and other sales abroad.

The Commons, tackling the first legislation on its agenda, gave first reading to a bill to expand some of the insurance protection under the Export Credits Insurance Act, passed in 1941.

Trade Minister Hees said the existing ceiling of $200,000,000 has been used up by federal underwriting of these export contracts:

Czechoslovakia — wheat worth $15,600,000; Poland — wheat worth $51,000,000; Brazil — steel rails worth $3,000,000; Mexico — steel rails worth $10,000,000; United States — aircraft worth $61,800,000.

AIRCRAFT SALES

Mr. Hees said there was another $34,000,000 worth of wheat for Poland and wheat sales, under negotiation or potential, amounting to $21,000,000 plus possible aircraft sales worth $6,000,000.

In the 17 years of the Export Credits Insurance Corp., losses totalled a net $2,097,688—cases where the government had to reimburse exporters for non-payment by foreign buyers.

Pay Bill Listed By NDP

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill seeking to require employers to give at least two weeks' holidays with pay after one year's employment to all employees in the federal field of labor jurisdiction was introduced in the Commons Friday by Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre).

Existing law requires two weeks' holiday with pay after two years' employment.

Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) introduced a bill amending the Elections Act to enable any voter away from home on election day to cast his vote and have it transferred to his home constituency.

Inquiry Eyes Phony Prices

OTTAWA (CP) — A justice department crackdown under the 1960 law forbidding the use of phony "regular" or "list" prices in sale advertising was indicated Friday.

Up to last April 1 three prosecutions had been launched; formal inquiries dealing with cameras, culture, funerals and stereo combinations had been abandoned for various reasons; and several other investigations were in progress.

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Research Council says that in the 1961-62 fiscal year it performed 1,500 research jobs for Canadian industry.

The council's statement follows sharp criticism of its role in industrial research by Canadian businessmen at a trade department industrial expansion conference last month.

H. H. Lank, president of du Pont of Canada Ltd., asked the 400 businessmen if they ever had benefitted from industrial research done by NRC. No one raised his hand.

Few Firms Ship Slipshod Goods

OTTAWA (UPI) — Wallace Nesbitt, Parliamentary secretary to Trade Minister Hees, said Friday a few Canadian manufacturers are shipping sub-standard products to European markets.

Nesbitt, who spent several weeks touring European ports and talking with importers and businessmen, said some Canadian products lacked the "finish or uniformity" of similar European-produced products.

Most of our manufacturers are doing a wonderful job, but there are one or two instances—and I will not mention the trades concerned—where this has not been the case."

Panama Rite Marred

PANAMA (UPI) — A howling nationalist mob Friday marred dedication ceremonies of a giant bridge over the Panama Canal's Pacific entrance.

Officials called an early halt to the dedication ceremony attended by President Robert Chari, U.S. undersecretary of state George Ball, Canal Zone governor Maj.-Gen. Robert Fleming and U.S. ambassador Joseph Farland.

The ceremony was shortened to keep the mob from tangling with police.

Rain, Vicious Dogs All in Day's Work

By MIKE GADSBY

Delivering sad messages may not be a very pleasant job, but it's all in the line of duty for a telegraph messenger.

Five Victoria secondary school students ride from 15 to 20 miles a day, delivering telegrams on bicycles. They ride in all weather immune to traffic congestion, but not to cold and rain. They bolster the efforts of the 12 full-time messengers employed by the CPR and the CNR to deliver to all parts of the city.

Boys on bicycles are still the quickest, most efficient way to deliver telegrams in the downtown area says Arnold Ashworth, assistant communications agent for the CPR, who used to deliver them himself.

The boys are paid 75 cents an hour for an eight-hour day to face hazards which include doors opening on parked cars, vicious dogs and nasty people.

CAN WORK WAY UP
"If a boy shows promise," said Mr. Ashworth, "he can work his way up in the company. I delivered messages for six years around the time of the depression, when it was almost impossible to get any type of work."

Harold Lupton, manager of CPR telegrams in Victoria delivered telegrams too, as did most of the men in this office. Mr. Ashworth said.

BOYS WARNED
"Death messages are still the worst to deliver," said Mr. Ashworth. "During the war we used to get a lot of them. We always warn the boys beforehand so they can say something ahead of time to soften the blow. It's not a very popular job to deliver those messages."

"We get a lot of good boys through here," said Mr. Ashworth, "and they usually go on to better jobs."

Bucking heavy traffic and bad weather is all in day's work for Jack Edward, 15, of 4565 Scarborough Road, shown delivering messages for Canadian Pacific Telegraphs.

Combines Prober

Conspiracy Not Sure If Tenders Identical

VANCOUVER (CP) — Submission of identical tenders to large buyers such as municipal corporations, governments and public utilities doesn't necessarily indicate a price-fixing conspiracy.

D. W. H. Henry, director of investigation and research under the Combines Investigations Act, said Friday.

Speaking to the Public Buyers Group of B.C., Mr. Henry said the situation of identical bids for supply of a large quantity of goods could occur in a situation sometimes known as "oligopoly."

FEW COMPETITORS
He described this as an industry having a small number of competitors who, by reason of their small number, know a good deal about each other's businesses and particularly about the way each is likely to react to given market changes. It breeds "conscious parallelism," or the tendency to act more or less in a uniform manner, he said.

Such a situation could, without collusion, bring about the same results as if there were collusion. But without collusion there was no offence against the law.

He said it is generally recognized by economists that in a market where only a few firms supply a homogenous product, any difference in prices at which the firms regularly sell the product can be temporary only unless some unusual factor is present.

Bacon-type hogs, rather than the heavy lard-producing kind, are favored by Canadian farm producers.

Bennett Supports Doukhobor Probe

Premier Bennett has asked for federal consideration of a proposed Senate committee on B.C.'s Freedomite problem in spite of reports Prime Minister Diefenbaker is pessimistic any solution can be reached.

The premier disclosed yesterday he had telegraphed Mr. Diefenbaker asking that the Conservative government take "under advisement" a Senate committee proposal put forward Wednesday by Ontario Liberal Senator David Croll.

His telegram read, in part, "greatly encouraged that Sons of Freedom question should be raised in senate and note your apparent interest in this matter."

He said B.C. would cooperate in any study of the Freedomite problem.

Lumber Tariff

Experts Not Called

WASHINGTON (CP) — Tariff Commissioner Walter Schreiber Friday criticized the U.S. lumber industry for failing to call government and university forestry experts to testify concerning the industry's demands for greater import restrictions on Canadian lumber.

At the final session of a 10-day public hearing, Schreiber said he wondered why, with all the university and state experts available in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and California, none was brought before the commission.

"MOST CURRENT"
William Jobe, assistant counsel for U.S. manufacturers seeking the higher tariffs, said the industry sought the best available witnesses who were "most current" with U.S. forestry resources on a national basis.

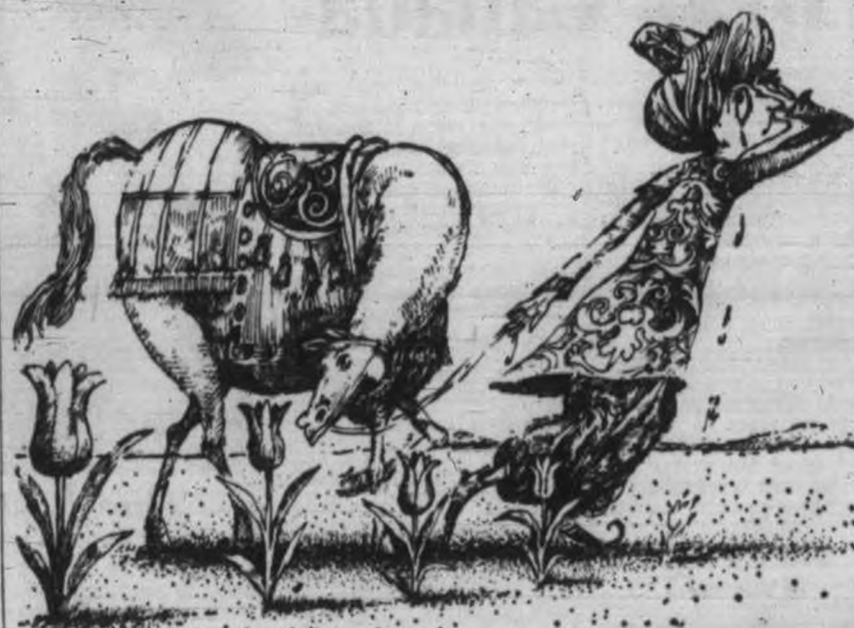

When Schreiber questioned whether authorities who live, work and teach in the forestry states could not be considered as "current," chief industry counsel Edwin Martin said he was to blame for not calling such experts.

NO EFFORT
He said he had advised his clients that he did not believe it possible to get forestry service officials to testify and as a result made no effort to obtain them.

Although the hearing ended Friday, Chairman Dorfman indicated the commission still has a lot of work ahead. He announced a Nov. 15 deadline for submission of further information by both sides.

Dieters Warned of Danger

CHICAGO (UPI) — The American Medical Association yesterday warned dieters not to cut down on their blood cholesterol by themselves, saying: "It can't be done. It could even be dangerous."

His tears turned into tulips

An ancient Oriental legend tells of the young Persian — Ferhad — who fell deeply in love with the beautiful maiden, Shirin. But the lovely Shirin spurned the youth. Broken-hearted, Ferhad wandered far out into the desert and wept for his lost love.

As he wept, each tear that struck the desert sands burst into a most magnificent flower — a tulip. From that day on, those tear-bred blossoms became the symbol of the Perfect Lover.

The fruits of Ferhad's tears were brought to Holland in the 16th century. There, the tulip, and other flower bulbs, found their true home.

In Holland, centuries have been devoted to the breeding and cultivation of hundreds of varieties of flower bulbs. This tender care and devotion make it possible for you to enjoy their rare beauty today.

Flower bulbs from Holland — tulips, crocuses, hyacinths, daffodils — will bloom almost anywhere. We don't recommend planting in the desert unless you've a long watering hose or a tearful lover. But if you've got a garden — the method is simple. Dig a hole, drop in a tulip, a hyacinth or a daffodil bulb and cover it up. Then walk away from it and let the bulb and nature do the rest.

When spring comes, pick a blossom and give it to your wife, husband, mother or lover — and hope for the best. One thing is certain: if the flower bulbs are marked "Imported from Holland" — you can't buy anything better.

Five Crucial Games on Tap

It's a Big Football Weekend

On the stretch run in both conferences, Canadian Football League clubs are coming up to their biggest weekend of the season. All nine clubs will see action, one of them twice. In five games which are bound to have a big bearing on playoff decisions.

Main interest is centred on the Western Conference, where four clubs are locked in a scrap.

Tonight's Western Conference game between B.C. Lions and Edmonton Eskimos will be broadcast over radio stations CKNW (980) and CKWX (1130) at 8:30 p.m. and televised tomorrow on channel 8 at 12 noon. There is no telecast tonight.

for the three playoff spots and Winnipeg Blue Bombers are defending a one-point lead against the second-place Calgary Stampeders.

Stampeders play in Winnipeg, and with only three games left to five for the Bombers, have to win tonight to entertain any hopes of gaining the coveted playoff bye.

Bombers go into the game near peak strength with only linemen Steve Patrick and a doubtful starter, Stampeders are generally fit and expect to use fullback Earl Lunsford and linemen Don Luzzi, both favoring leg injuries.

LIONS FRET

Meanwhile, B.C. Lions will continue their late playoff bid and seek to make it four games in a row by entertaining Edmonton Eskimos at Empire Stadium in Vancouver.

Lions are in good physical condition, although halfback Willie Fleming is handicapped by a sore big toe, but coach Dave Skrien is worried about this game.

"We're feeling pretty good about that win streak, and it could be dangerous," Skrien said, obviously fearing a mental letdown. "Besides, the Eskimos have had to scramble to put a lineup together all year and they have managed to stay within shooting distance. The pressure will be off them, and it's a dangerous situation."

BETTER SHAPE

Eskimos will be without fullback Johnny Bright, guard Don Duncanson and linebacker Dick Grenell but are about as close to

"I think that Victoria has a wonderful future in racing," Jack Diamond, co-operator of the B.C. Jockey Club, said last night. "This area used to be a strong racing area and I think it's on the way back. I feel that we have provided better racing each year we have operated at Sandown, and it is our intention to keep improving every year."

Diamond said that the complete totalisator system would be ready for the 1963 meeting, providing a flashing board which will inform patrons of the amount wagered on each horse right up to the minute in the straight, place and show pools.

All-Stars Too Good For League Champs

Victoria University Vikings, who beat out the other three teams for the Esquimaux and District Amateur Hockey League championship last year, found themselves too much to handle last night at the Sports Centre.

An all-star team from Navy, Pontiac Chiefs and Army took on the defending champions and trounced them 8-4, in the first game of the season. League play starts next Friday, when Navy plays Vikings and Army faces Chiefs.

SEPARATE UNITS

All-stars used three complete teams, switching all six players at each line change. They led 3-0 after one period, and 5-0 after two.

Eskimos Play Minus Bright

EDMONTON—Fullback Johnny Bright of Edmonton Eskimos may be through for the rest of the Canadian Football League season.

The perennial western all-star has been troubled by an achilles tendon, fibres connecting the tendon to the leg pulling away when he puts pressure on his foot. Coach Eagle Keys says he probably will not play again this year.

Valiant Wins To Set Pace For Vic High

Al Valiant of Victoria High School won the first cross-country race of the season yesterday, covering a tough two and one-half mile course in 12 minutes, 55 seconds to head a field of 44 runners.

Valiant finished six seconds ahead of Mark Gibson of Shawinigan Lake School, and Bill Blann of Victoria University placed third, 12 seconds behind Valiant.

Battling against the weather as well as the clock, runners from Victoria High, Naden, Belmont, Shawinigan Lake Boys' School, Victoria College, Esquimaux High and Central Junior High all ran the rugged course.

Tough competition among Valiant, Gibson and Naden's Sherlock featured the pace. Under the reverse scoring system, Victoria High placed first with 24, Shawinigan Lake came second with 27, Belmont third with 65 and Naden fourth with 74.

Last night's scores: Portland 4 at San Francisco 3; Seattle 0 at Vancouver 2; Los Angeles 4, Edmonton 1.

Next games: tonight—San Francisco at Seattle; Vancouver at Spokane; Los Angeles at Calgary.

Giles Villeneuve, a 22-year-old rookie goalkeeper, posted a shutout in his first professional hockey game last night in Vancouver, but when Canucks had finished beating Seattle Totems 2-0, most of the praise was being heaped on silver-haired Phil Maloney.

BUSY NIGHT

Maloney, seemingly as good as ever at 34, scored the first goal at 13:15 of the first period, sparked the Canucks' first line at centre, killed off penalties, filled in on the power play, and accepted the trophy.

WIN SOCCER CUP

LISBON, Portugal (Reuters)—Brazil's Santos soccer team beat Benfica of Portugal, the European Cup holders, 5-2 to win the inter-continental soccer cup here Thursday night. Santos won the first leg 3-2 in Brazil last month.

Bantam Teams Play Sunday

Oak Bay and Trojans will meet Sunday in a Juvenile Football League game at Car-narvon Park at 12:15. An exciting game is anticipated since games thus far this season have been close and packed with outstanding play.

THE PALMER METHOD

GRIP -- AND GRIP CORRECTLY

To place your hands correctly on the shaft, first grip the club with the palm of the left hand and the fingers of the right. The shaft, as shown in illustration #1, angles diagonally from the second knuckle of the forefinger to just inside the meaty part of the palm.

Now close your left hand over the club (see illustration #2).

If the thumb is slightly off-center, don't worry. That's as it should be. Looking down, you'll see the forefinger knuckle and the ring finger knuckle.

When the right hand closes over the shaft, the thumb lines up slightly on the shaft's target side. The forefinger is "cocked" -- slightly separated from the others. The "V" formed by thumb and forefinger, you will notice, points toward the right eye.

Rangers Chary with Haberdashery

For Want of a Jacket Hockey Kingdom Lost

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Seventeen years ago, Gordie Howe refused to sign with New York Rangers because they wouldn't give him a jacket. The Rangers weren't particularly impressed with the Floral, Sask., farm boy—they thought he was a bit awkward for National Hockey League play.

The New York decision was the best thing that could happen to Detroit Red Wings. The Wings grabbed him and the "big fella," as former general manager Jack Adams fondly refers to him, developed into a super-star.

This season, the 34-year-old right-winger should take a big stride towards becoming the league's all-time high goal scorer in regular season play, unless, of course, someone chops him off at the knees.

But Gordie has been an indestructible player in this heavy bodily-contact game and has missed only 18 games in the last 13 seasons. That, alone, is a record.

With the 1962-63 season under way, Gordie needs 43 goals to surpass the 544-goal total set up over a wild, tempestuous 18-year career by now-retired Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens.

It isn't likely that Howe will reach the record this 70-game season, although just about anything is possible with him. He has been the backbone of the Red Wings for years and he still remains one of the most feared and deadly shots in the NHL.

He started this season with 562 goals in 16 seasons and there is no indication that he has lost his touch.

Last year, for instance, he ended the league schedule with 33 goals, an output that scores of younger chaps in the big time would love to match. He never has been under 20 goals a season since he started to find the range in spectacular fashion back in 1949-50.

That season he scored 35. In 1951 he potted 43, the following season 47 and then reached a personal high of 49 in 1953. And, to prove this sharpshooting was no fluke, he won the scoring title in 1956-57 with 44 goals.

Up to this new season he had played 1,059 league games, 72 more than Richard who, late in his great career, suffered serious injuries. In his 18th season, the Rocket played only 28 games, 42 in his 17th season and finished his career in 1959-60 with only 51 game appearances.

Otherwise, it is conceivable the Rocket could have boosted his total by another 20 or 25 goals. But the way Howe is going, it is conceivable, too, that he could still beat the Rocket.

There's one consolation for Richard fans. He is likely to go down in history as the greatest scorer of all time in league and playoff games.

His total here is 626 goals. Howe started this term with 543.

It's a long way to go, even for Gordie Howe.

Series Resumption Doubtful Today As Storm Lingers

By JACK HAND
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rain and 45-mile-an-hour gale winds forced postponement of Friday's sixth World Series game and threatened plans to resume play today at 3 p.m. EDT.

An all-night rain soaked the uncut outfield grass at Candlestick Park, tugged at the infield tarpaulin and threatened to carry it away despite a number of 35-pound weights.

If they had tried to play ball Friday, this could have been the day of the first 900-foot home run in the winds that made it difficult to open doors and shattered glass in downtown hotel windows. Even on a sunny day, Candlestick has its well-publicized wind tunnel.

Commissioner Eard Frick, who delayed 71 minutes past game time before calling Tuesday's game in New York.

Fan Rates Mantle Over Mays

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mickey Mantle's batting mark for New York Yankees in the World Series is low but it hasn't affected his sense of humor.

Both Mantle and Willie Mays, the San Francisco Giants' slugger, have been comparative flops in the classic. Mantle is 2-for-15, with no homers and no runs batted in. Mays is 5-for-21, with no homers and only one RBI.

Mantle told this story on himself.

"Some guy in centre field yelled out 'Hey, Mantle, everybody came out to see who was better, you or Mays. Now we're trying to figure out, who's worse.'"

Later came the same voice: "Hey, Mantle, you win."

Victoria Curling Club Set for Monday Start

Club draws at the Victoria Curling Club will start on Monday with 79 rinks, including a new high of 18 from the ladies' division, taking part.

All club rinks will curl twice weekly on a staggered schedule. The 61 men's rinks have been divided into three squares of 16 rinks. They will operate on a promotion-relegation basis with leading rinks from each of the three lower squares moving up and trailing rinks from the first four squares dropping down.

First week's draw follows:

"A" SQUARE
Dickson, Guback, Rayburn, Hall, G. Leibel, McInnes, Marshall, Moss, Moore.

"B" SQUARE
Bullock, Barclay, Bryce, Camp, Fink, Hoffman, Robinson, J. Leibel, Lohy, McLenn, Matheson, Siddall, Glen Robertson, Taylor, Thomson, Garroway, Mowbray.

Greek Owner Accepts Carry Back Challenge

PARIS (AP)—The owner of Monade, three-year-old French filly, Tuesday picked up a challenge for a five-horse match race by the trainer of the American colt Carry Back.

George P. Goulardis, Monade's owner, said he will accept Jack Price's challenge for a winner-take-all race involving Carry Back and the first five finishers of last Sunday's Arc de Triomphe. Goulardis is a Greek shipping magnate.

Monade, winner of the Epsom Oaks, finished second. However, owner of the first place

Chamber of Commerce To Join in Salmon Fight

The tourist industry group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce has voted to join the Amalgamated Conservation Society in its fight to maintain and improve Vancouver Island salmon fishing.

It will be the 11th organization to join the ACS.

"Too many tourists are going home skunked," tourist promoter Sam Lane told a dinner meeting of the group Thursday night.

He was named chairman of a group committee to study ways and means to combat the decline of salmon fishing and a former commercial fisherman, James Quinn, will help him as a committee member.

Expects Dodger Shakeup —But in Playing Ranks

By PHIL COLLIER

NEW YORK (CNS) — Emil J. (Buzie) Bavasi is a restless individual, a gregarious intellect subject to extreme changes of moods and a man who bleeds inwardly in adversity.

These traits have convinced many observers that Bavasi will exercise his prerogative as general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers and fire his field leader, Walter Alston.

A LOYAL BOSS

But there is another side to the man who runs baseball's richest operation. Bavasi demands and receives fierce loyalty from his associates and returns the same in equal measure.

He is an enigma because he patiently avoids making emotional snap decisions that go hand in hand with a restive nature.

HARD TO ANTICIPATE

If Bavasi is an enigma, so is the man he must answer to, Walter O'Malley. Contrary to general belief, O'Malley is a man generous in many respects.

But O'Malley also is dedicated to gaining back the $20,000,000 he sank into his new Chavez Ravine ballpark and he is wise enough to know that the Dodgers must do something to win back the many thousands who were sickened by the club's collapse.

Alston, capable and decent as he is, has never earned the admiration of the Los Angeles fans. Bavasi and O'Malley must grapple with the knowledge that the elevation of Leo Durocher from coach to manager would be a powerful stimulant to attendance.

LEO HANDICAPPED

Durocher would be a difficult choice, however, because so many observers thought he would try to undermine Alston when he hooked on as third-base coach in 1961. In effect, Bavasi would be perpetuating that notion if he gave Leo the job.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Buzzy Bavasi, general manager of Los Angeles Dodgers, staunchly defends Manager Walter Alston despite the Dodgers' costly defeat in the playoff for the National League pennant.

Bavasi said Thursday night he will ask coach Leo Durocher after the World Series to explain remarks attributed to him in which he criticized Alston's handling of the team.

Alston was quoted as saying he would have won the pennant if he had been manager, a statement he later denied.

"He has to prove to me he didn't say it," said Bavasi.

"A loyal coach never would have made remarks like that but would have defended his manager against those who attacked him."

SHOWDOWN COMING

The big showdown on the Dodgers' managerial situation will come next week when O'Malley returns from a hunting trip. He will sit down with Bavasi and vice-president Fresno Thompson to discuss Alston's status for 1963.

"Alston has been the fall guy for the team's collapse in some quarters," Bavasi said. "I think he did a good job. So maybe he did make a mistake in the last inning of the last game. Are you going to crucify a man for one mistake?"

"Was it Alston who was picked off first base? Was it Alston who was thrown out at the plate three times in the last week? Was it Alston who was shut out three times in the closing week? Could Alston be blamed because we had five .300 hitters going into the last week and wound up with only two?"

Alston was quoted as saying he would have won the pennant if he had been manager, a statement he later denied.

"He has to prove to me he didn't say it," said Bavasi.

Distortion Is Claimed On Alleged Criticism

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An official of Los Angeles Dodgers who attended a party in which Leo Durocher allegedly criticized manager Walter Alston is claiming Durocher's remarks were distorted.

Durocher, a coach under Alston the past two seasons, was quoted as having said: "We would have won the pennant if I had been managing the club."

The Dodgers, after leading most of the season, were overhauled by San Francisco Giants on the final day and beaten in a playoff for the National League pennant.

The official, who did not want to be identified, gave another version.

"It was at a party that had been arranged earlier by the Dodgers for their front office help and other personnel," he said. "It was intended as a victory celebration but we decided to go through with it anyway."

"We were all feeling blue about losing the pennant and somebody, crying in his beer, turned to Durocher and said: 'We never should have lost the pennant. I wish you were managing in that last game. We'd have won it.'"

Durocher replied: "Yeah, I sure would have liked my chances going into the ninth inning with a 4-2 lead."

"A few days later, I read where Durocher was quoted as having said the Dodgers would have won the pennant if he were the manager."

The Giants' four-run rally in the ninth and their subsequent Thieves operating in Saanich over the past two months have looted construction jobs of tools valued at a total of $1,500.

Some of the tools have been found by city police investigating burglaries of city premises. Others were sold in the Vancouver area.

EXPENSIVE DRILLS

Saanich detectives are investigating the thefts which range from simple hand tools to expensive electric saws and drills.

Many have been from partly-completed construction jobs where workmen have left their tools locked inside buildings overnight.

Saanich detective Robin Stewart said the thieves could be either residents or thieves from the mainland, visiting Saanich on the provincial government ferries.

Hot Air Alarms Buildings

Too much hot air yesterday set off a legislative buildings fire alarm which sent 600 civil servants scurrying for the sanctuary of the outdoors.

Most of them thought it was a routine fire drill.

MAIN CORRIDOR

A Victoria fire department official said overheating of the air in the main east corridor touched off the automatic alarm.

Legislative security officer Jack Stearn turned in the fire department alarm when an indicator blazed a warning in his office.

ON THE SCENE

Three city fire engines and a police car were on the scene in slightly more than two minutes.

The alarm surprised hardly anybody because a fire drill was already scheduled, but it was not to be held until next week. Officials said the practice drill will be held anyway.

Bridge Results

Winners of the Victoria All-Islanders Duplicate Bridge club monthly master points tournament were Liliane Leblond, Jack Goldie, Lionel Artlett, Paul Baker, Charles Clouston, Larry Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Macdonald, Wally Allen, Otto Lawrence, Mayne Macdonald and Marie Macdonald.

B.C. Forests Spared

'Cheap' Fire Year Ends

B.C.'s least costly forest fire season in recent years ends Oct. 15—two weeks earlier than usual.

Closures of the fire season came yesterday by cabinet order. It left more than $1,000,000 of the $1,400,000 fire suppression estimate unspent.

Cost of fighting 1,529 fires this year amounted to $318,000. Last year the province spent $4,500,000 extinguishing nearly 5,000 forest fires.

Forest officials said wet summer weather should get most of the credit for the lightest fire year since 1955 when the suppression cost was a mere $74,000.

Remodelling Scheduled

Entire stock of Victoria Photo Supply, damaged in a fire Sept. 24, will be replaced before the store re-opens in mid-November.

And the interior will be completely remodelled, owner Frederick Tanner said yesterday. He estimated damage to his stock at $25,000 to $40,000 and damage to the store at up to $7,000.

Stubborn Flames Quelled in Noranda

NORANDA, Que (CP) — A stubborn hard-to-reach fire which has been burning in the Noranda Mines Limited Horne Copper mine since Monday was brought under control Friday.

Company officials said the fire which started at the 900-foot level of the 35-year-old mine burned through supporting timbers at the 900, 800 and 700 foot levels before being brought under control.

Crews of trained mine fire-fighters using oxygen masks and fog-nozzled hoses have been fighting the flames since they were discovered Monday.

F. A. Patton, assistant mine manager, said no miners were in the vertical shafts when the smoke was first noticed, and there have been no casualties.

Cause of the fire has not been determined and no estimate of damage was immediately available.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

If you feel you could use more black currant, red currant or gooseberry bushes, this is a good time to propagate them by taking and rooting cuttings. I should point out, however, a bush grown from a cutting can never be any better than the parent bush, and if your present plants are elderly pensioners bearing indifferent crops of undersize berries, it is just plain foolishness to build up a bigger stock of the same poor performers.

Black currant cuttings are made from new shoots which have grown out this summer and are sturdy and firm. A bit about eight to 10 inches long is best; removing the unripened soft-growing tip from the shoot, cutting to just above a bud. The base cut is made immediately below a bud, using a very sharp knife or an old razor blade to avoid crushing or bruising the wood.

Moisten the base of the cutting and dip it in one of the excellent hormone rooting powders such as Rootone or Seradix, and insert in a partially shaded bed of gritty or sandy loam soil. These slips can go in quite deeply, with only the top two buds showing above the soil surface. Trim the base of the cutting just before inserting, so it won't have time to dry out in the air. Don't plant too closely together, as these slips will make strong growth the first year—eight inches apart, each way will be about right.

If you are buying and planting black currant bushes this fall, they will have to be pruned back hard immediately after planting, leaving only two buds above the soil surface. These prunings from young, newly-purchased plants make perfectly good cuttings and can be prepared and rooted in exactly the same way as slips from old established bushes.

Red currant, white currant and gooseberry cuttings can be made a bit longer, say, 10 to 12 inches, again from shoots of this year's wood. The preparation is the same, again making your cuts immediately below a bud at the base and above a bud to remove the unripened tip. These are not inserted as deeply as the black currant slips—push them in to half their length, leaving about four buds above the soil surface to form branches.

The big difference between black currants and the other members of their family is in their habit of growth. Black currants bear their heaviest crops on young wood, so are encouraged to stool out, forming a bush with a number of shoots coming up from below the soil surface. Hence the deep planting.

Red and white currants and gooseberries bear their fruit on permanent spurs, rather in the same manner as apples, and the best form is to train the plants to grow as tiny trees, with all branches originating well above ground level and with a clean-cut "trunk," if only a few inches high.

With this object in mind, it is often recommended to nick out all the below-ground buds from these cuttings. Personally, I prefer to leave them on, for you get some useful roots from those buried buds, and it is easy enough to remove any branches which may start growing from too low on the stem.

Fig cuttings can be prepared the same way as for red currants, but as these are a bit on the tender side, it is better to root them in pots of sandy soil in a cold frame.

Grape vine cuttings can be made of lengths of well-ripened wood three or four buds long, and as a very common error is to plant these upside down, it is best to mark the tip or base of each cutting in some way. The buds are spaced pretty far apart on grape wood, so a four-bud slip may be a foot or more in length. These are quite hardy and should root readily if inserted to half their length in a shaded bed of sandy soil outdoors.

JOHN CROSBY Learns from Author

Soviet Heroes Always Win

PARIS—The other day a French newspaper reported another Russian writer, Konstantin Simonov, an enormously popular novelist whose books have sold between 20 and 30 million copies, was next in line for a Nobel Prize. Since the last Russian Nobel prize-winner, Boris Pasternak, wasn't allowed to accept it, I hurried right around to ask Mr. Simonov, who is vacationing in Paris, whether he expected to win the Nobel Prize and whether his government would let him keep it if he did.

Simonov, a pipe-smoking, tweedy, good-humored man, laughed and said he hadn't the slightest expectation of winning a Nobel Prize. As to whether he'd be allowed to accept it if he won it, Simonov simply said the occasion wouldn't arise.

We fell to talking about Russian literature in general. Simonov admitted Russian literature has become more human under Khrushchev than under Stalin. (Remember those Russian films where boy meets tractor, boy loses tractor, boy gets tractor?)

I asked him if Russian writers were as taken up by the anti-hero as American, French and Italian writers, and I had to explain the anti-hero, a fellow who is buffeted by fate rather than in charge of his own destiny.

"There's nothing of that sort in Russian literature," Simonov declared immediately. "Our writers describe all the complexities and difficulties which mankind faces. The hero of our novels is an active, not a passive, fellow. He has his weaknesses, of course, but he surmounts his difficulties by his own efforts."

He rattled off the names of a few young Russian writers whom he admired—Tendryakov, Bondarev, Bykov, Baklanov, Aksionov, none of whom I'd heard of—all of whom are creating heroes "who like to see things with their own eyes, to have an active role in their destiny."

Simonov said he'd been so busy writing he hadn't had time to do much reading of our anti-hero fiction. Among American writers, he likes Hemingway and Faulkner and he was lavish with praise about Salinger, who has just been translated into Russian.

"I liked Catcher in the Rye very much. Salinger's young people are very comprehensible to the Russians. There's a very deep human base to this book. It affords insights into the human soul. Very pure. In spite of the great differences between our countries, this novel is very close to the things Russians understand."

How's the cold war going in his opinion? I asked. "I am not a very good cold war thermometer, but what I would wish most in the world is that the cold war would ease up," he said.

Fraternity Disciplined For Noisy Parties

VANCOUVER (CP)—Delta Upsilon fraternity has been placed on indefinite probation by the inter-fraternities council at the University of B.C. following complaints of noisy parties at the group's chapter house in the fashionable Kerrisdale area.

The situation will be reviewed every two weeks, said president Ken Dobell, who added: "The neighbors were certainly justified in some of their objections. However, the situation at present is much improved."

Parents Design Long Gym Suit For Young Girl

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Judy Rae Bushong, 16, high school freshman who refused to expose her knees on religious grounds, attended a gym class Friday wearing an extra length of cotton material sewed to her gym suit. It covered her legs down to the calf.

The addition to the one-piece suit apparently ended a fuss which brought national attention to the pretty school girl at Springfield Township High School.

Her father, Rev. Herbert Bushong, 35, and her mother, Margaret, said the dispute involved "freedom of religion."

The parents said they believed exposing the upper leg led to lust, even in a closed gym room with only girls and a female instructor present.

Bushong, who had to quit school to go to work after Grade 8, obtained his ministerial licence through correspondence work five years ago. Because his church near Canton, Ohio, is unable to support the Bushongs, the minister works at an Akron gasoline station.

Railman's Wife Killed by Train

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Mrs. Helen Chocholacek, wife of a CNR section foreman, was killed Friday when struck by a way freight at nearby Tranquille.

Police said she stepped out of the station building and into the path of the oncoming westbound train. Her husband, William Chocholacek, was out on the line at the time.

Bypass Shunned

Truck Drivers Like Fry-Up with Jam

GRANTHAM, England (AP)—A fine new highway curves round the edge of Grantham, but long-distance truck drivers ignore the bypass and continue to clog the town's narrow main street.

Investigating officials found they like to eat at Tony's Cafe, where a plate of eggs, chips and tomatoes sells for three shillings (45 cents).

"I'd rather get stuck in any traffic jam than miss a good fry-up at Tony's," said John Welsh. "Most of the lads think the same."

The authorities have persuaded Tony to move his cafe to a site on the highway.

Waves, Wind

Shipping Storm Victim

Forty-foot waves and hurricane-force winds off Cape Beale wreaked havoc to the tune of thousands of dollars on merchant ships battering their way around the island early yesterday morning.

LOST OVERBOARD

The Anthony II, loaded with lumber for the United States, lost part of her deck cargo overboard, including two fork lifts.

The Powell River, on her way to load newsprint at Port Alberni, sustained damage to her inbound cargo of zinc dust in bags, when the cargo shifted.

CARGO DAMAGED

Cargo of canned salmon from Vancouver on the Walhemo, inbound for Port Alberni to pick up lumber and plywood for Australia, was damaged extensively.

The Nancy Dee, in Port Alberni to load lumber for Japan, touched on bottom in harbor. She is now alongside the dock waiting for Lloyd's surveyor and divers from Victoria to make a report on damage. "She does not appear to be leaking," said Capt. C. McL. Fry, manager Port Alberni Shipping, "so perhaps the damage is superficial."

ANCHOR LOST

The Demos, en route to Chemainus to load lumber for the United Kingdom, lost her anchor in the howling gale off Southey Point in Houston Pass. Mrs. Steele, of S. and S. Shipping, Chemainus, said attempts would be made to recover the anchor.

...Scant Sympathy

Mental Patients Must Face False Stigma

By ED CONGROVE

One out of 10. That's the number of Canadians who will suffer some form of mental disorder which calls for institutional care during their lifetime.

"It's as common as the cold yet while a physical illness usually draws nothing but sympathy from the family and friends, mental disorders still carry an ancient stigma," said Robert W. Dudley, executive director of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

This attitude, he said, was not due to a misinformed population, for mass circulation media such as newspapers have carried innumerable stories and articles on mental health.

"People are uninformed," he said. The stories and message they carry have failed to penetrate through the age-old stigma attached to mental disorders. The 250-member branch here maintains the White Cross Centre at 799 Lamson, where an attempt is made to help former mental patients bridge the gap that has separated them from the community.

Shy, Withdrawn

"When people are released from institutional care, they are shy and withdrawn... the program here is designed to prepare them to re-enter community life.

"We know we have succeeded when suddenly someone drops out of our weekly get-togethers—we know then they have taken up the threads of their lives," said Mr. Dudley.

The centre is maintained through funds allocated to the CMHA from the Community Chest's United Appeal.

Voluntary Staff

Counselling service and club rooms are staffed by volunteers. Mr. Dudley and secretary Mrs. Arthur Howard, whose husband, a navy lieutenant, conducts the regular Thursday social evenings which feature films, music, games and refreshments.

Without the centre, discharged mental patients, many who regard ordinary conversation as an ordeal, might retire from the world.

"A good many are on social assistance, which provides for little more than four walls and a bed. Without a place to go to meet people who understand them, they would sit in their rooms, becoming more and more withdrawn until they were back in a fantasy world..." said Mr. Dudley.

Value Shown

One young girl, a recent referral from hospital, has demonstrated the value of the centre.

Painfully shy at first, she found it impossible to talk with people at the centre. She was taken to and from the meetings by volunteer drivers, for a bus trip was out of the question.

Gradually she joined in the centre activities, then joined an "outside" young people's group and resumed former interests.

Smoke Talk For Meeting

City smoke inspector Tom Walker will speak at a meeting of the Victoria branch of the Institute of Power Engineers at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Flame Room of the B.C. Hydro Building. Topic will be smoke abatement.

Dam Details Ready Soon

Preliminary information for contractors who want to bid on construction of the giant Portage Mountain Dam across the Peace River will be available next week, B.C. Hydro and Power Authority announced yesterday.

It is anticipated detailed tender documents for the dam construction contract will be available before the end of the year, the announcement said.

"One of these days we won't see her any more and we'll know we've been successful in restoring this girl to society," he said.

Traffic Mishaps Keep Police Busy

A rash of traffic accidents, Street by Francis Eathly, 1015 McClure, was in collision with a car travelling in the same direction by Enid Vickers, 2493 Currie Road. Nobody was injured.

An accident at Fisgard and Government around 5 p.m. involved cars driven by Alan Donahue, HMCS Skeena and Low Chuck Sing, 860 Fisgard.

Cars driven south on Cook Street near Opal by Adrianus Kool, 433 Boleskine and Barry Bittner, 944 Fairfield, were in collision about 4:40 p.m. There were no injuries.

Other accidents were reported at the roundabout, in Oak Bay and Esquimalt but they were all of a minor nature.

Delegates to the annual meeting in Vancouver of the society chose him to succeed Collins C. McCartney, manager of the Hotel Vancouver in Vancouver.

School Trustees' Convention To Hear Leading Educators

Delegates to the B.C. School Trustees' convention here next week will hear leading educators talk on community colleges and vocational-technical training.

OPENS MONDAY

The three-day convention opens Monday and will feature speeches by Mrs. Phyllis G. Ro, chancellor of the University of B.C.; Dr. C. F. McNally, chairman of the National Vocational and Technical Training Advisory Council; Dr. F. T.

Giles, co-ordinator of college relations at the University of Washington, and B.C. Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

One of the convention's leading authorities on the establishment of community colleges, Dr. Giles has chosen this topic for his address to the convention Tuesday.

ON SAME DAY

Dr. McNally and Education Minister Peterson will also address the convention the same day.

Delegates to the convention will also deal with a policy resolution declaring that community colleges and training schools should be developed by school boards as extensions of the public school program.

Two panel discussions are scheduled and the convention will also deal with a policy resolution declaring that community colleges and training schools should be developed by school boards as extensions of the public school program.

Mr. Peterson will make an evening address.

City Hall Model Display Samples Victoria Smog

REALISTIC: It's no secret that city hall doesn't meet the fire safety requirements that all other buildings in the city are supposed to meet but this condition almost came well to the fore yesterday.

That detailed scale model of the proposed civic precinct has been on display on the landing just behind the second floor council chamber with two floodlights on it but the inadequate electrical wiring overheated with the load yesterday and smoke poured out of the fixtures.

So the floodlights were turned off. The model is now being left in the semi-darkness but we hear the pall of smoke which lay over it for some time asked a realistic touch, typically Victorian.

HUM? We hear that since those modern buildings have been erected at Victoria University the students refer to

QUICK TRIP: Mayor Dick Wilson and wife, Elizabeth, are packing for a hurried trip to Europe and hope to get to Norwich to see the rehabilitation scheme city council is using as a basis for Victoria. They plan to leave next weekend and get back in time for the mayor to attend a meeting of the executive of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities in Montreal Nov. 12 and 13.

thanks to some fine work by local car clubs, it's interesting to hear that all U.S. armed forces vehicles, including buses, are fitted with them. One reader who travelled on a U.S. Air Force bus recently neglected to fasten his seat belt and was politely told by the driver that they wouldn't be going anywhere until he did it up.

HOT SPOT: B.C. Government Travel Bureau officials are wondering if they have overdone the bit about the warm weather Victoria enjoys.

Meter Misses

Trail Plan Eyed

Victoria may take a leaf from the book of Trail and—in certain cases—issue permits for parking in the downtown meter zone in return for payment of an annual fee.

Ald. Michael Griffin, chairman of the city's special traffic committee, said yesterday he has written to the B.C. interior city requesting details of the plan.

It would chiefly assist people such as doctors and tradesmen whose work takes them to the downtown area frequently for irregular periods. "Doctors who get a sick call from anyone living in a downtown apartment may be tied up for a few minutes or more than an hour," said Ald. Griffin.

MANY TICKETS

The same applies to tradesmen who are called to do a job in the meter zone. Frequently they are forced to park a block or more away from the place where they are working and in the course of the job must either break off to move their car or pick up a parking ticket.

"I don't know how the doctors make out but some tradesmen have been given as many as three or four tickets in one day and it's normal to get half a dozen in a week," the spokesman said.

TRAIL PIONEER

Trail has pioneered a system under which a special permit is issued in these cases that allows parking at any meter available for as long as necessary, without inserting coins.

Ald. Griffin said he had no information at present on the amount charged for special permits in Trail, but added that it was sufficient to ensure that the city suffered no loss of parking revenue.

HIRE HOODS

At present operators of commercial vehicles may hire "hoods" for a 25 cent daily fee (minimum charge 50 cents) which are placed over parking meters while a particular job is in progress. The hoods are not issued for automobiles.

Roof Repairs Faulty

The manager of the Vancouver Island Better Business Bureau has warned house holders to be on their guard when approached by roof repairmen soliciting business door-to-door.

Manager-director W. D. Tindall last night said several complaints now under investigation involved roofs being sprayed with a compound which was supposed to waterproof them.

SPRAY NOT ADVISED

Mr. Tindall said roof repair companies which are members of the Vancouver Island bureau do not recommend spray methods for waterproofing roofs.

He said the jobs complained about apparently were done in the past month or so and the complaints began coming in.

Home Owners Warned

with the recent spell of rainy weather.

He recommended that people thinking of having their roofs waterproofed—especially by people who have come to their doors—get waterproofing estimates from at least two or three companies and, perhaps, check with the bureau.

WOOD COMPLAINTS

Mr. Tindall said a number of calls have been received from people who feel they have been delivered less—or poorer—firewood than they

At a recent meeting of the fledgling bureau's directors 42 firms were admitted as members, he said. About 100 other interested firms have application forms.

GOOD RESPONSE

He said he has had encouraging response in correspondence with up-island chambers of commerce. He plans to send a man to Nanaimo "as soon as possible" to solicit memberships in the bureau and has forwarded its branch office when activity warrants it.

Mr. Tindall said he has been informed that the Canadian Better Business Bureau has approved the application for membership of the Island bureau and has forwarded it for approval to the U.S. National Better Business Bureau, to which the Canadian bureau belongs.

Shower Honors Bride

Bride-elect, Miss Carole Dickinson, was honored at a shower given by Miss Marilyn Hughes at the home of her mother, Mrs. R. J. Hughes, Prospect Lake Road.

A red rosebud corsage was given to the honor guest and her mother, Mrs. D. S. Dickinson and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. R. J. Hughes, received carnations.

A decorated "Good Luck" cake centred the table and gifts were concealed in a pink and white laundry basket.

Other guests were Mrs. R. Anstey, Mrs. A. E. Monroe, Mrs. A. Becker, Mrs. Ella Rogers, Mrs. G. MacTaggart, and the Misses Cathy Anstey, Linda Anstey, Shirley Hughes, Linda Reid, Maureen Gill, Diane MacTaggart and Winnie Reid.

Christmas Coming!

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Females accustomed to planning ahead better get crackin' on the Christmas chores.

Sure. We know. The frost's not all over the pumpkins. Halloween's flighty witches have yet to take off on their annual star dusting tour. And the Thanksgiving horn of plenty's still more empty than full.

But the signs of Christmas, 1962, won't be delayed. They're moving in on the landscape like crabgrass.

It's enough to make us women who do everything at the last minute upset. In the last several days, we received the following proofs that the Yule season's started:

A reminder that this week's the very last chance to buy Christmas cards at big money-saving discounts. (Not as large, of course, as the August discounts!)

A hint that we can get extra dividends from our mistletoe by spraying it with clear plastic or dipping the stem ends in melted wax.

A dozen new ways to make Christmas leftovers palatable. A holiday appeal letter urging contributions to a charity.

But that's not all of the Christmas trimmings to light up this second week of October.

Word of the joys of toys are drifting in from Santa's workshop in the North Pole.

Ditto for Yule gift suggestions for men, women and children who have everything.

What makes the emergence of the Santa season official? A "Merry Christmas" greeting with 1963 wallet-sized calendar attached.

Where wrappings are concerned, early-bird suggestions range from reasons "mad" gift papers leave them laughing to why wrapping bought in the name of a charity makes the holiday warmer.

Many of the seemingly premature reminders urge us to get our Christmas orders in now "to insure prompt delivery."

It's enough to make us old-fashioned girls — last minute types — bite our nails!

The most appropriate Christmas card has a picture of an angel on the front. The message:

"I'd fly right over and wish you a Merry Christmas but I don't have wings... like you."

Jubilee Auxiliary Bazaar on Nov. 7

Plans for the annual fall bazaar to be held on Wednesday, Nov. 7 were discussed at a meeting of the Junior Auxiliary of the Royal Jubilee Hospital at the Nurses' Home, the president, Mrs. K. W. L. Scace in the chair. The bazaar, which is one of the highlights of the Auxiliary's fund-raising activities, will be opened at 11 a.m. and luncheon and tea will be served.

Mrs. J. Pennington, general convener of the affair, gave a resume of the arrangements which have been made and each convener reported progress in her own stall plans.

Mrs. F. G. Aldous, visiting committee convener reported 15 visits to patients, and transportation provided for three patients. Arrangements have been made by the Auxiliary for membership in the Victoria Art Gallery for nurses-in-training at the hospital in order that they may avail themselves of the opportunity of the picture loan department. A letter was read from Miss Thompson, director of nursing, thanking the members for the interest in the student nurses. Mrs. J. B. Hedley offered to accompany the nursing school representatives to the gallery to assist them in choosing the pictures.

Members were invited to attend a coffee party to be held on Oct. 12 by the Women's Auxiliary in the Nurses' Home, and also to attend a bridge tea at the Institute to the Blind on Oct. 26.

Tea was served after the meeting, Mrs. J. Pearson and Mrs. John Priestman presiding at the table.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Forsen announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Sophia, to Mr. David Henry Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Bennett. The wedding will take place at Hope Lutheran Church on Oct. 20 at 7:30 p.m. — Rev. L. M. Carlson officiates. — (Ryan Bros.)

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Please, please help me. I am a jealous and possessive woman and I hate myself for it.

Whenever my husband is a few minutes late from work I put him through the third degree. I make him account for every second of his time and naturally he resents it. Who wouldn't? I'm constantly making phone calls to make sure he's where he said he'd be.

He is a wonderful person and a perfect husband. I have no reason to distrust him. I know I'm dead wrong. If I don't get control of myself soon I'm going to lose a terrific man. Am I crazy? Can you help me? — IN DESPAIR.

Dear In Despair: You have the battle two-thirds won. First, you recognize your problem and accept responsibility for your actions. Second, you are fully aware that jealousy is corrosive and destructive and you do not underestimate the dangers.

Now, get professional help. You must conquer your feelings of inadequacy and get off the attack.

Dear Ann Landers: You've had many letters in your column about borrowing, but since we moved to this city we have encountered a breed of borrowers unmatchable anywhere.

My husband is a bug on garage and garden tools. Everyone who knows him is aware that he has the finest assortment in town. Max is big-hearted and enjoys lending things. But people take advantage of him.

It's reached the point where our neighbors don't even come to the door and ask if they can use this or that. They just walk in and take whatever they want. If my Max needs a tool and it's missing he doesn't know where to look for it.

When we leave town for a few days it's not uncommon to find the garage window pried open because someone decided to help himself. What can be done about this? — Q. T.

Dear Q. T.: You can call it "borrowing" if you wish, but prying open windows and taking tools without the knowledge of the owner is called "stealing" where I come from. If Max wants to put an end to this nonsense he can put bars on the garage windows and learn to say no to anyone who fails to return a tool within 24 hours.

Dear Ann: The letter from the 13-year-old girl who missed her divorced dad could have been written by my own daughter.

The divorce laws in most states are archaic. In Canada they are impossible.

It is almost universal that the mother gets custody of the children. Only in cases where the father is willing to testify that his wife is an unfit mother (an out-and-out tramp) does he stand a chance of getting the children.

I didn't want a divorce. It was my wife's idea. She found marriage too confining. She wanted to live it up—which she certainly did as I later found out. I had enough evidence to hang her but I didn't want to drag her name through the mud because of our children and her aging parents. So I remained silent. She took the children.

Every Sunday when the children are with me we have a wonderful time. When it's time to take them back to their mother I practically have to drag them out of the car. Often there are tears. But the court insists they are better off with her.

You are right, Ann, the children are the big losers in a divorce. For the second biggest losers I'd like to nominate the fathers.—B. B.

Dear B. B.: The amazing thing about the divorce game is that so many people are losers yet it becomes increasingly popular.

Attendants Wear Blue Face Veils

Miss Janice Karen Wallace was united in marriage with Mr. Ronald James Griffiths at a candle lit, double-ring ceremony recently in Grace Lutheran Church.

Pastor William A. Williams officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Wallace, Denman Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Griffiths, Stannard Avenue. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an all-white gown of organza over peau de sole designed with lace embroidered panel from neckline to hem, and pleated cummerbund with fan-shaped bow. She carried American beauty roses. Her veil was held by a coronet of small-seed pearls.

Attendants were Miss Sharon Knowles, Miss Barbara Turkington and Miss Penny

Jones. They chose gowns of royal blue peau de sole with full, short skirts, round necklines and three-quarter sleeves. Their headpieces were matching blue rose-shaped flowers with royal blue short face-veils. All carried white carnation bouquets and wore drop pendants, gift of the bride.

Mr. Ronald Grant was best man and ushers were Mr. Russell Heugan and Mr. Russell Leech.

At the reception at Lougheed's, the bride's cake was topped by a love-bird. Pale orange dahlias and white mums decorated the head table. Sons of Norway played for dancing. Mr. Ken Stensen proposed the toast.

For a honeymoon in Seattle and the world's fair, Mrs. Griffiths changed into a pale turquoise wool two-piece suit made by her mother with brown accessories.

No Women Take Part In Council

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—It is a man's world behind the bronze doors of St. Peter's.

No women's voices — not even those of the Mother Superiors of nuns — will be heard in the ecumenical council.

Although the council's deliberations will cover topics ranging from marriage and education to Christian unity and women, no woman is eligible to take part in the historic church assembly.

The Vatican is a solid bastion of masculinity and is apparently determined to stay that way.

"Equal but different" is the way experts sum up the Roman Catholic church's attitude towards the feminine half of the world.

The council is a uniquely male stronghold in an era when women are taking a larger part in making the world's decisions.

No woman can be a delegate to the ecumenical council since a woman cannot become a Roman Catholic priest. Canon law limits the priesthood to baptized males.

Nuns are not eligible to participate in councils, according to canon law.

In theory, some of the non-Catholic churches sending observers to the council might have appointed a woman representative. But none did.

In the Vatican they quote St. Paul:

"Let women keep silence in the churches for it is not permitted them to speak, but let them be submissive as the law also says. If they wish to learn anything let them ask their husbands at home, for it is unseemly for a woman to speak in church."

Pope John XXIII said last year that men and women were equal but that failure to distinguish "between their respective functions would result in debasing woman and destroying the true foundation of her dignity."

GLENN LAKE SCHOOL

The monthly meeting of the Glenn Lake Home and School Association will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 17. Mrs. Stevenson will speak on "The new method of primary arithmetic."

Young Stanley Ritz has his wheelbarrow piled high with fresh garden produce similar to vegetables and fruits to be sold at St. Louis College annual fall fair to be sponsored by the Mothers' Club on Wednesday, Oct. 17, from 2 to 10 p.m. at the college. There will be other stalls of aprons, needlework, home-cooking, delicatessen, jewelry, as well as a country store, white elephant and fish pond. Tea will be served in the afternoon, coffee and doughnuts in the evening.

the "frill-packed emporiums" so dear to the heart of B.C. "educators," trying to develop disciplined, tough minds, urges that schools be rehabilitated as places of work and development and that much of the frill be cut away.

The communists believe that to subdue a country it must be reduced to dull mediocrity and high intelligence destroyed. Reading an arithmetic book for fourth graders wondered if we did not have the same objective. The greatest danger in the schools, however, is the "guidance experts." It is bad enough that education should be taken over by the state, but it is far more dangerous when the moral authority and guidance which should belong to the parents and church are usurped by state officials.

Spirit Is Needed

It is a mighty dangerous thing which parents should not tolerate. This is communism. No matter whether the "guidance experts" are sincere and sometimes competent. Their guidance should be academic. This column referred to a "guidance expert" who said approvingly that young people are working out their own moral code.

Plane Crash Fatal to Three

MANILA (AP) — A Philippine Air Lines turbo-propeller crashed at Manila's international airport, killing the three pilots who were aboard. They were practising takeoffs and landings.

Part of Revolt

The attitude is part of a revolt against all authority, a reliance on the capricious instinct of the individual self, each isolated individual "free" to make his own decisions without reference to external authority, pursuing an egoism which consults only "I want."

Leads to Chaos

Monistic and materialist theories, discarding tradition and community, lead to such utter chaos that at the end, the individual surrenders abjectly to brutish dictatorship and irrationalism. Self is surrendered for a slot in the technological society as a non-personal man, without existence of his own, without privacy, with no value except service to the state, horribly worshipping some transfigured man-made idea. Such is the fate of those who turn from the true and eternal authority "whose service is perfect freedom."

Word of God In Macaroni

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet newspaper Trud (Labor) charged yesterday Jehovah's Witnesses were smuggling their literature into Russia from the U.S. in dummy food packages of macaroni, rice and raisins. Trud made the charge in a story headlined: "The Word of God in Macaroni."

Now to anticipate misunderstanding, I am aware that psychologically youth must have a spirit of rebellion and that we have had rebellion as far back as the Prodigal Son, but this sort of thing is obviously different. State authority is substituted for parental authority. The good traditions of society are discarded.

Make Decisions

This attitude was pointed out in a discussion group with teenagers. The members belonged to the higher moral and intellectual level. Yet they contended teenagers who wished early marriage should "make their own decision," though benevolently they would discuss the matter with their parents first.

The Commandment, "Honor your father and mother," was regarded. This lack of respect for authority, this doctrine of "self-expression," this contempt for truth, creates the "beat generation."

Papacy Big Block Anglican Declares

TORONTO (CP) — Papal authority, involving the dual claims of supremacy and infallibility, is seen as the big obstacle to a rapprochement between the Roman Catholic and Anglican Churches in a book written and published privately by an Anglican layman.

The author is George Lewis, a professor of anatomy at the University of Toronto. He believes, however, that if current trends toward Christian unity are continued and accelerated "Anglicans and Roman Catholics may find themselves quietly and naturally reunited in a church which is both Catholic and truly Reformed" before the end of the century.

'Unsoundly Based'

Prof. Lewis, married to a Roman Catholic, is a member of the Anglican Church of Canada's committee on Anglican-Roman Catholic relations. The 25,000-word book, Toward Anglican-Roman Catholic Unity, is developed on the theme that papal authority, including the dogma of papal infallibility defined by the Vatican council of 1870, is "so unsoundly based that it may properly be regarded as false."

The writer believes that only its retraction could provide a solid foundation for the reunion of the two churches.

He Is Infallible

The Roman Catholic Church holds that the Pope is the centre and source of authority in regard to faith and morals. On these matters he is infallible when he speaks ex cathedra—in other words whenever he speaks as the successor of Peter and as the Vicar of Christ, and declares that a given statement on faith and morals is contained in divine revelation.

To Vital Position

Traceable to the centralization of authority in the papacy, Prof. Lewis says, are the elevation of tradition as a source of revelation to a position virtually of superiority over Scripture, and dogmatic exaltation of the Virgin Mary to a point "out of all proportion to the certain knowledge we possess of her."

"Anglicans deplore the addition of such doctrines as those concerning purgatory, indulgences, and transubstantiation to what is clearly central to orthodox Christian belief. But even these doctrines, while utterly speculative, cannot seriously be compared in importance and ultimate consequence with those doctrines so recently defined and, in effect, appended to the (Nicene) Creed, concerning the privileges and prerogatives of both the Pope and the Blessed Virgin Mary."

'No Help To Unity'

CALGARY (CP) — The ecumenical council is unlikely to unite Catholics and Protestants, the moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada said Friday.

Rev. Ross Cameron of Toronto said his church is interested to see the Catholic Church "in modernizing its attitude toward people . . . but we don't think the council will have anything to offer in the way of unity."

REV. ROSS CAMERON . . . it's unlikely

Card Mystifies Pope

By ALAN HARVEY

ROME (CP) — A Canadian diplomat took a 34-year-old postcard out of his pocket today and presented it to a puzzled Pope John.

"This is a postcard from a certain Mr. Roncalli," said Jean Bruchesi, Canada's ambassador extraordinary to the 21st ecumenical council.

The Pope looked blank, then tapped his chest.

"You mean me?" Bruchesi explained that the card had indeed been sent to him by Angelo Roncalli, son of a peasant family from Bergamo, near Milan. He now is known to the world as Pope John XXIII.

As the Pope chuckled and

Diplomat Met Pontiff in 1928

nodded his head, Bruchesi explained that he received the card after a visit in 1928 to Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, where the Pope was serving as papal envoy.

Bruchesi, then a professor, had called to convey greetings from his uncle, the late Msgr. Bruchesi, archbishop of Montreal and a close friend of envoy Roncalli.

Members of the Pope's en-ourage laughed heartily as Bruchesi unfolded the story of the faded postcard, "carefully preserved through the years."

The little scene took place in the Sistine Chapel of the Vatican Palace, where the Pope gave a historic audience to heads of missions attending the council.

In his typical way, the Pope broke precedent by leaving his throne to walk freely through the lines of diplomats, instead of having them come to him.

When he addressed the diplomats as a group he spoke in a fluent and only slightly accented French, appearing completely at ease.

Bruchesi is now Canada's ambassador to Spain.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Catholics Meet Many Faiths

ROME (AP) — Roman Catholic churchmen and 23 representatives of other Christian denominations conferred Friday in an unprecedented meeting.

Never before in modern times had so many Catholic representatives set down with so many non-Catholic delegations for a formally arranged discussion.

LIKELY WORK

The aim of the meeting was to allow the Catholics — members of the Vatican's secretariat on Christian unity — to brief the non-Catholics on work likely to be done at the ecumenical council. All the non-Catholics are observers.

They are the first non-Catholics to attend such a general assembly of the Catholic church in 400 years.

Witnesses Begin Assembly

Almost 900 Jehovah's Witnesses from southern Vancouver Island last night began a three-day assembly in Sooke aimed at training them to spread the group's religious message more effectively.

Donald Mills, supervisor of the Witness district which includes B.C. and part of Alberta, is lecturing and conducting workshops on house-to-house and other types of mission work.

ALSO ATTENDING

Sidney Kilner, formerly of Lethbridge, who is in charge of Witness work on Vancouver Island, also is attending the convention.

A feature of the sessions in Sooke community hall was to be baptism by immersion of new Witness candidates.

PORTABLE TANK

Victoria area Witnesses own a portable tank which was to be used for the immersion.

Mr. Mills is to give a public address in the hall Sunday at 3 p.m.

Tests Extended

MOSCOW (AP) — The period of Soviet military manoeuvres and rocket testing in the Barents and Kara seas has been extended until Nov. 10, the official military newspaper Red Star announced. The manoeuvres have been underway since last July.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING
WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?
Made of dry 11" stock in 10 and 12 inch widths. FOREST siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected logs in British Columbia to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

APPEARANCE?
For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, and where a heavy shadow line, sound interlocking joints, and a wide range of colors are desired, FOREST siding is the answer. It is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected logs in British Columbia to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?
FOREST siding with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume adds to the structural strength and solidity of the building. FOREST siding ensures a tight weather seal at the joints. The insulation value of FOREST siding represents an economy to home builders. Choosing less than most other types of siding, the log design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?
As easily and quickly as common siding. Each piece of FOREST siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one nail cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?
If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand waterproof sealer. This will not only protect the wood but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and burls. If a colored finish is desired, FOREST siding can be easily painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to remove the finished product underneath the log design where it will not show.

Victoria Ticket Draws Favorite

An unidentified Victoria resident has drawn an Irish sweepstakes ticket on the 10-to-one favorite in next Wednesday's race.

The Victoria who bought his ticket under the pseudonym Kahloke—the name of one of the B.C. government ferries—is one of six Canadians whose tickets were drawn on Hidden Meaning, favored to win next stakes at Newmarket, Eng. Wednesday's Cambridgehire race.

In all 11 Vancouver Island residents hold Irish sweepstakes, tickets drawn during two days, ending last night.

Mrs. Lorraine Gordon of 3209 Doncaster, Saanich, yesterday said she has never bought a sweepstakes ticket before.

She said she is sharing her ticket with her recently married daughter in Kelowna "because she got it for me."

Her ticket was drawn on My Bewitched, for which no odds were listed.

Other holders of tickets drawn yesterday were Bill Zimmerman of the Comox district, whose ticket is on Redoubt, and Eric Dilleston, Nanaimo, whose ticket is on Pagan Prayer.

WHICH VICTORIA? Two other Victoria residents entered under pseudonyms. Bee Jay holds a ticket on Smuggler's Joy and Murray holds one on Uncle Percy. (Murray didn't designate the province and could conceivably be from Victoria, N.B., P.E.I., or Nfld.)

Railway, Brotherhood Will Resume Parleys

MONTREAL (CP) — The CPR and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC), under the urging of Labor Minister Starr, Friday night agreed to resume talks aimed at averting a system-crippling walkout Oct. 28.

The two parties are expected to get together next Monday morning although there was no official announcement on the time or place.

'No Use Sending Dead Daddy' Non-Swimming Officer Unable to Save Child

TORONTO (CP) — A seven-year-old girl was drowned in Lake Ontario Thursday night as a policeman stood by helplessly, unable to give aid because he couldn't swim.

Michele Bredin, who had fallen into seven feet of water with her brother, Michael, 10, went under as Const. Gerald Switzer arrived at the scene in response to cries for help. Michael swam to safety.

"I can't swim," the constable said. "I've got three buddies, too. It's no use sending home a dead daddy."

The constable had stopped his cruiser at the waterfront in east-end Toronto to make an entry in his log.

"I'd seen both of them playing two or three minutes earlier," he said. "I was sitting in the car writing when I heard the boy's cries for help. I ran along the weir and saw her floundering and then there was a circle in the water where she went down."

Const. Switzer ran to his cruiser and radioed for help. Harbor police recovered the girl's body.

Michele and her brother often played at the waterfront. They fell from a breakwater which stretches 50 feet into the lake.

Monaco Border Closed In Brief French Test

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI) — The French government, angered by Monaco's adamant stand against paying taxes to France, threw a customs barrier around this pint-sized principality at midnight Friday but withdrew it 30 minutes later.

There was no immediate explanation for the sudden turnabout by French officials.

However, one unconfirmed report said France had decided to impose the short customs blockade as a test-run for further harassment if the Monegasques continue to oppose French tax demands.

A heavy rain and the suddenness with which French customs men shut off the border led to long lines of cars on both sides of the frontier.

When French officials asked "what have you got to declare?" they heard a stock answer from many drivers:

"Box of matches, a handkerchief, a beer."

Prince Rainier arrived here only moments before from Paris where last-ditch talks had been held between the two sides.

The sunny seaside centre attracts thousands of tourists annually. Scores of international concerns have established "headquarters" there to escape French taxes.

Peace Plea Voiced

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Pope John XXIII appealed Friday to world leaders to "save the world's peace."

The pontiff made the plea in a speech to state leaders gathered for a special audience on the second day of the Roman Catholic Church's 21st ecumenical council.

Pope John, speaking in French, said heads of state should continue to meet each other for conciliatory talks aimed at "just and generous agreements."

He said it "is time that something decisive was done" to bring about "the great peace that all men are waiting for and for which they have suffered so much."

The present council, expected to last two years, would help.

Britain Told That U.S. Can't Halt Ship Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has told Britain that the U.S. cannot prevent all anti-Castro shipping raids which might jeopardize British ships in the Cuban trade.

A British statement of concern has brought an American response which seemed, in some respects, to say that the British ships could only proceed in the Cuban trade at their own risk.

RAINED BY ENRAGED
State department press officer Lincoln White said the matter had been raised with the department by the British embassy here in connection with the attack some weeks ago by a Cuban exile group on several ships, including the British vessel Newlane.

A Cuban exile group calling itself Alpha 66 claimed it carried out the attacks, and said it has headquarters in Puerto Rico.

NO U.S. SUPPORT
"The British were assured," White said, "that these attacks (specifically the raid on shipping when the Newlane was hit) do not have the sanction of the United States government."

White said, however, that "Cubans reside at many places all around the Caribbean, and the United States cannot assume responsibility for acts initiated by Cuban exiles who have left from points not under United States jurisdiction."

The British government has basely here in connection with said officially that it "would take a serious view of any attacks" on any of its Cuba-bound ships.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Newly independent Algeria yesterday backed Cuban premier Fidel Castro's regime and warned the United States that any attempt to overthrow it would be "dangerous for world peace."

Algeria's position was outlined in a major foreign policy speech by Foreign Minister Mohammed Khemisti. He was the first non-Communist speaker to back the Castro regime publicly in the United Nations General Assembly.

He spoke only three days after Premier Ahmed Ben Bella, who has been lionized socially by the Communist and other delegations here, affirmed Algerian neutrality as the country became the 109th UN member.

Ben Bella will see President Kennedy in Washington Monday and will go to Havana later in the week to meet Castro. Castro sent a goodwill mission to Algiers in July and Ben Bella was greeted by Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos in a meeting here last weekend.

Gale Smashes Northwest Leaves 17 Dead

Island Gusts Hit 89

A vicious southeast gale — with gusts howling to a near-record peak of 81 miles an hour — screeched across southern Vancouver Island last night, leaving a snarl of downed trees and tangled power lines in its wake.

Police, fire department and B.C. Hydro emergency crews were on the jump from 10 p.m. until long past midnight responding to frantic calls for aid.

The gale blew in two huge show windows at Eaton's at View and Douglas, sending glass fragments and Christmas toys flying into the street.

DUMMIES IN STREET
One of the windows blew out at about 10:45 p.m. and the other followed a few minutes later, causing dummies to sail into the street and blowing leaves off an imitation tree.

Power blackouts were reported within minutes of each other, the worst covering Beach Drive from the 100 block to the 600 block. A power line was downed in Esquimalt, a tree was reported knocked down and burning from contact with a live wire in Oak Bay; Shelbourne was blocked by another smouldering tree; the 4100 block Quadra reported trees and power lines down.

BLEW IN WINDOW
Victoria's city hall suffered storm damage when the wind blew some windows in on the Pandora Street side of the building and showered the sidewalk and road with glass splinters.

RAIN CASE OFF
Heavy rains, climaxing a week of downpour, eased off late Friday but western Oregon rivers continued a swift rise.

TORE TREES
All western Oregon was battered. The hurricane force winds hit the Cascade range 125 miles inland.

For nearly three hours the raging storm tore down trees, shattered massive windows and lifted roofs in Portland.

An hour later it hit Astoria, Ore., and moved into Washington, battering Olympia and Tacoma.

PHONES OUT
Pacific Northwest Bell Telephone Company said 40,000 or more telephones in the state were out of order.

Power lines were down almost everywhere. Mile after mile of countryside was without lights as lines and poles went down.

This pounding attack was another strike from the Pacific Ocean storm that first hit Thursday, sweeping along 1,000 miles of coastline.

POWER FAILS
In early afternoon Friday all power failed at Crescent City on the northern California coast. Soon the inland southern Oregon city of Ashland was struck. Trees were blown down and a small airplane hangar was overturned.

Then reports began coming in as the wind cracked north.

On the coast at Brookings, Ore., an oil storage shed was picked up and dumped into a mill pond.

TOWER COLLAPSES
A 200-foot-high steel tower blew over at the edge of Oregon's Coos Bay, dropping a 115,000-volt line across the shipping channel.

At Newport on the central Oregon coast the iron roof of a building sailed past the courthouse and slammed into parked cars. An unidentified body was reported washed up onto the beach. Inland again, a small building near Cottage Grove was blown over, injuring three men. All power failed at Eugene and the U.S. weather bureau said the wind force was about 80 m.p.h. Radio stations went off the air.

The state capital, Salem, reported gusts of 70 m.p.h. and stately old trees on the capital grounds fell.

No Survivors
In Plane Crash
SEVILLE, Spain (UPI) — An Iberia Airlines plane crashed and burned in a light fog near here Friday. An airlines spokesman said all 18 persons aboard were killed.

Americans Take Over Kremlin—Shooting Begins

By PETER DEMPSON
Taird of a Series

MOSCOW — Even in the Kremlin, the heart of Moscow and the Soviet Union, the United States wields a lot of influence—despite the ideological differences between East and West.

Four Canadian newspapermen, myself included, discovered this with considerable annoyance when we tried to gain admittance to the Presidium, where the Supreme Soviet (USSR Parliament) meets. The sittings had been adjourned until fall.

A burly Russian guard met us at the door. "You can't come in," he told us through an interpreter. "The Americans have taken over the building for a few days. Come back later."

TV Film Bars Canadians from Presidium

A series of questions brought forth this information:

The National Broadcasting Co. had obtained permission to make a film in the Kremlin entitled, The Kremlin Today and in the Future. Television cameras had been set up all through the ancient building.

No one was to be permitted to enter the Presidium, until the filming had been completed.

The remainder of the Kremlin, however, was not closed to us. Along with thousands of other tourists, we tramped the 64 acres, where the most ancient relics of Russian history and culture have been preserved.

It was inside the Kremlin walls that Moscow came into being eight centuries ago. It is at the confluence of the Moskva River and its tributary, the Neglinka.

The old wooden stockade was replaced in the 15th century by massive red brick walls.

The Kremlin is a complex of palaces and churches in which Vladimir Ilyich Lenin, founder of the Soviet Communist state, ruled with a mailed fist in his

Canada Close In Cup Golf

KAWANA, Japan (AP) — An all-North American duel for the Eisenhower Cup, with a revived U.S. team holding a two-stroke lead over Canada going into the final round of the world team championship.

The U.S. team came back from a miserable second round to top the Canadians 649 to 651 strokes after 54 holes.

In the final 18-hole round today, Gary Cowan, 23, of Kitchener, Ont., battles Dick Siket, a University of Arkansas physical education major, for individual honors. Cowan, 1961 Canadian amateur champion, has scored 68-71-72-211 and Siket 69-76-69-214 on the picturesque Full course.

The Britain-Ireland team, sparked by Michael Bonallack's 69 and Alexander Sadler's 72, moved into third place Friday with 658 strokes, followed by New Zealand with 660.

Ninety-two players from 23 countries played in near seclusion at this somewhat isolated course 80 miles southwest of Tokyo.

The U.S. picked up eight strokes on Siket's 69, a 70 by Deane Bennett and 72 by Labron Harris Jr. and Billy Joe Patton.

WAKEHAM'S BEST

Bill Wakeham, 21-year-old B.C. champion from Victoria, had his best round, a 72, but Cowan and Nick Walslock, 45, of Burlington, Ont., posted their high tournament rounds with 72 and 75, respectively.

Dr. Jack Leddy of Saskatoon, non-playing captain of the Canadian team, said the final 18 holes today will be "a real battle."

"Our boys are playing very high calibre golf," he said. "Our chances are very good."

as the team's most gentlemanly player.

With help like that, Villeneuve had all the confidence he needed to help Canucks to victory in their Western Hockey League opener. He made 25 saves, several of them of sensational nature, and convinced 2,665 fans that the Canucks nets are in good hands.

Portland Buckaroos had to come from behind in San Francisco, beating the Seals, 4-3, on third-period goals by Orr Teasler and Bill Saunders before 4,118 fans.

Ed Pangabko had given Seals a 1-0 lead in the first period. Arlo Goodwin and Teasler made it 2-1 for Portland, but Seals got the lead back before the period ended on goals by Len Haley and Al Nicholson.

POOR START

Edmonton's defending champions continued to find the going rough, losing 4-1, to Los Angeles Blades before 2,000 fans at Edmonton.

Stan Maxwell, Fleming MacKell, Bruce Carmichael and Gord Haworth scored for the Blades, who dominated play throughout and got steady netminding from Jack McCartan. Don Chiz scored for Flyers, who have lost their first two games.

WIN SOCCER CUP

LISBON, Portugal (Reuters) — Brazil's Santos soccer team beat Benfica of Portugal, the European Cup holders, 5-2 to win the inter-continental soccer cup here Thursday night. Santos won the first leg 3-2 in Brazil last month.

One Last Parade

Shown here with Mrs. Don Carley is Terry Tet, who returns to racing for a moment of spotlight today, 20 years after he ran his last race. Terry Tet started his racing career in Vancouver in 1934 and ended it at the Willows in 1942, winner, Carley says, of 24 races. Now 30 years old, Terry Tet became a winner in horse shows after he left racing and in late years has been used at Carley's Victoria Riding Academy. He will parade today before the start of the fourth race, the "Terry Tet Claiming."

Five Crucial Games on Tap

It's a Big Football Weekend

On the stretch run in both conferences, Canadian Football League clubs are coming up to their biggest weekend of the season. All nine clubs will see action, one of them twice, in five games which are bound to have a big bearing on play-off decisions.

Main interest is centred on the Western Conference, where four clubs are locked in a scrap.

Tonight's Western Conference game between B.C. Lions and Edmonton Eskimos will be broadcast over radio stations CKNW (880) and CKWX (1130) at 8:30 p.m. and televised tomorrow on channel 8 at 12 noon. There is no telecast tonight.

for the three playoff spots and Winnipeg Blue Bombers are defending a one-point lead against the second-place Calgary Stampeders.

Stampeders play in Winnipeg and with only three games left to five for the Bombers, have to win tonight to entertain any hopes of making the playoffs.

Bombers go into the game near peak strength with only linemen Steve Patrick, a doubtful starter. Stampeders are generally fit and expect to use fullback Earl Lunsford and lineman Don Luzzi, both favoring leg injuries.

LIONS FRET

Meanwhile, B.C. Lions will continue their late playoff bid and seek to make it four games in a row by entertaining Edmonton Eskimos at Empire Stadium in Vancouver.

Lions are in good physical condition, although halfback Willie Fleming is handicapped by a sore big toe, but coach Dave Skrien is worried about this game.

"We're feeling pretty good about that win streak, and it could be dangerous," Skrien said, obviously fearing a mental letdown. "Besides, the Eskimos have had to scramble to put a lineup together all year and they have managed to stay within shooting distance. The pressure will be off them, and it's a dangerous situation."

BETTER SHAPE

Eskimos will be without fullback Johnny Bright, guard Don Dunne and linebacker Dick Grenell but are about as close to

Bantam Teams Play Sunday

Oak Bay and Trojans will meet Sunday in a Juvenile Football League game at Carleton Place at 12:15. An exciting game is anticipated since games thus far this season have been close and packed with outstanding play.

When to Fish or Hunt SOLUNAR TABLES

According to Solunar Tables calculated for this area, the best times for fishing and hunting for today and tomorrow will be as follows (times shown are Pacific Daylight Time):

TODAY		TOMORROW
Moon	Major	Moon	Major
5:45	12:30	5:45	12:30
6:00	12:45	6:00	12:45

Major solunar periods, lasting 1 1/2 to 2 hours, each 1/2 hour. Minor periods, shorter in duration, 1/2 hour type.

THE PALMER METHOD

GRIP -- AND GRIP CORRECTLY

If the thumb is slightly off-center, don't worry. That's as it should be. Looking down, you'll see the forefinger knuckle and the ring finger knuckle!

When the right hand closes over the shaft, the thumb lines up slightly on the shaft's target side. The forefinger is "cocked" -- slightly separated from the others. The "V" formed by thumb and forefinger, you will notice, points toward the right eye.

Waves, Wind

Shipping
Storm
Victim

Forty-foot waves and hurricane-force winds off Cape Beale wreaked havoc to the tune of thousands of dollars on merchant ships battering their way around the Island early yesterday morning.

LIFT OVERBOARD

The Anthony II, loaded with lumber for the United States, lost part of her deck cargo overboard, including two fork lifts.

The Powell River, on her way to load newsprint at Port Alberni, sustained damage to her inbound cargo of zinc dust in bags, when the cargo shifted.

CARGO DAMAGED

Cargo of canned salmon from Vancouver on the Walheimo, inbound for Port Alberni to pick up lumber and plywood for Australia, was damaged extensively.

The Nancy Dee, in Port Alberni to load lumber for Japan, touched on bottom in harbor. She is now alongside the dock waiting for Lloyd's surveyor and divers from Victoria to make a report on damage. "She does not appear to be leaking," said Capt. C. McE. Fry, manager Port Alberni Shipping. "so perhaps the damage is superficial."

ANCHOR LOST

The Demos, en route to Chemainus to load lumber for the United Kingdom, lost her anchor in the howling gale off Southey Point in Houton Pass. Mrs. Steele, of S. and S. Shipping, Chemainus, said attempts would be made to recover the anchor.

...Scant Sympathy

Mental Patients Must Face False Stigma

By ED COUGROVE

One out of 10.

That's the number of Canadians who will suffer some form of mental disorder which calls for institutional care during their lifetime.

"It's as common as the cold yet while a physical illness usually draws nothing but sympathy from the family and friends, mental disorders still carry an ancient stigma," said Robert W. Dudley, executive director of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

This attitude, he said, was not due to a misinformed population, for mass circulation media such as newspapers have carried innumerable stories and articles on mental health.

"People are uninformed," he said. The stories and message they carry have failed to penetrate through the age-old stigma attached to mental disorders.

The 250-member branch here maintains the White Cross Centre at 799 Lamson, where an attempt is made to help former mental patients bridge the gap that has separated them from the community.

"One of these days we won't see her any more and we'll know we've been successful in restoring this girl to society," he said.

By Province

Inquest Ordered
In Traffic Death

The attorney-general's department has ordered an inquest into the death of Ronald G. Wilson, struck down by a car Wednesday night in front of a north Douglas Street restaurant.

Funeral services for Mr. Wilson were originally scheduled for this afternoon, but have been postponed to Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. pending the inquest at McCall Brothers funeral home at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Robert J. Brotherson, of 1577 McRae, has been charged with impaired driving in connection with the accident.

Shy, Withdrawn

"When people are released from institutional care, they are shy and withdrawn... the program here is designed to prepare them to re-enter community life."

"We know we have succeeded when suddenly someone drops out of our weekly get-togethers—we know they have taken up the threads of their lives," said Mr. Dudley.

The centre is maintained through funds allocated to the CMHA from the Community Chest's United Appeal.

Voluntary Staff

Counselling service and club rooms are staffed by volunteers. Mr. Dudley and secretary Mrs. Arthur Howard, whose husband, a navy lieutenant, conducts the regular Thursday social evenings which feature films, music, games and refreshments.

Without the centre, discharged mental patients, many who regard ordinary conversation as an ordeal, might retire from the world.

"A good many are on social assistance, which provides for little more than four walls and a bed. Without a place to go to meet people who understand them, they would sit in their rooms, becoming more and more withdrawn until they were back in a fantasy world..." said Mr. Dudley.

Value Shown

One young girl, a recent referral from hospital, has demonstrated the value of the centre.

Painfully shy at first, she found it impossible to talk with people at the centre. She was taken to and from the meetings by volunteer drivers, for a bus trip was out of the question.

Gradually she joined in the centre activities, then joined an "outside" young people's group and resumed former interests.

Smoke Talk

Galiano Woman
Escapes Death
As Huge Fir Falls

A Galiano woman escaped death when a giant fir tree smashed down on her home.

A Port Alberni family was driven out into the wet by flames, and thousands were left without electricity or telephones by the storm that swept the Vancouver Island region overnight Thursday.

Mrs. M. D. Brawn was in her four-room home when the tree, measuring four feet at the base, toppled and demolished her kitchen.

She took refuge at the Galiano Golf and Country Club, operated by her son-in-law, I. P. Denroche, while a work bee of neighbors cleared the wreckage Friday and began repair work.

FOUR-HOUR FIGHT
Port Alberni volunteer firemen, under Chief William Venables, fought flames at the home of J. H. Booth, 618 First Avenue South, for four hours after they broke out at 4:30 a.m.

Several firemen were cut by flying glass as windows broke in the 10-room house, but none was seriously hurt. Mr. Booth and his family escaped uninjured into the rain and wind. Cause of the fire was not determined.

SHIP GROUND
As dawn broke, firemen could see the British freighter Nancy Dee aground on Hohm Island in the harbor. Anchored in the stream waiting to berth, the storm washed her onto the rocks at about 3 a.m.

Undamaged, the Nancy Dee floated free on the tide at 9 a.m.

Loss of electric power and communications was reported from all regions as winds that

Tenders Going Out

NANAIMO (CP)—Tenders will be called next week for a $750,000 extension at the provincial vocational training school here.

Public Works Minister Chant said work would begin four to six weeks after tenders are called. He said construction would take up to 12 months.

The expansion program here will include an administration building, cafeteria and kitchen building, an outdoor welding

Meter Misses

Trail
Plan Eyed

Victoria may take a leaf from the book of Trail and—in certain cases—issue permits for parking in the downtown meter zone in return for payment of an annual fee.

Ald. Michael Griffin, chairman of the city's special traffic committee, said yesterday he has written to the B.C. Interior city requesting details of the plan.

It would chiefly assist people such as doctors and tradesmen whose work takes them to the downtown area frequently for irregular periods.

"Doctors who get a sick call from anyone living in a downtown apartment may be tied up for a few minutes or more than an hour," said Ald. Griffin.

MANY TICKETS

The same applies to tradesmen who are called to do a job in the meter zone. Frequently they are forced to park a block or more away from the place where they are working and in the course of the job must either break off to move their car or pick up a parking ticket.

"I don't know how the doctors make out but some tradesmen have been given as many as three or four tickets in one day and it's normal to get half a dozen in a week," the alderman said.

TRAIL PIONEER

Trail has pioneered a system under which a special permit is issued in these cases that allows parking at any meter available for as long as necessary without inserting coins.

Ald. Griffin said he had no information at present on the amount charged for special permits in Trail, but added that it was sufficient to ensure that the city suffered no loss of parking revenue.

HIRE HOODS

At present operators of commercial vehicles may hire "hoods" for a 25 cent daily fee (minimum charge 50 cents) which are placed over parking meters while a particular job is in progress. The hoods are not issued for automobiles.

Roof Repairs Faulty

The manager of the Vancouver Island Better Business Bureau has warned householders to be on their guard when approached by roof repairmen soliciting business door-to-door.

Manager-director W. D. Tindall last night said several complaints now under investigation involved roofs being sprayed with a compound which was supposed to waterproof them.

But the roofs, the owners said, still leak.

NFRAY NOT ADVISED

Mr. Tindall said roof repair companies which are members of the Vancouver Island bureau do not recommend spray methods for waterproofing roofs.

He said the jobs complained about apparently were done in the past month or so and the complaints began coming in ordered.

Home Owners Warned

with the recent spell of rainy weather.

He recommended that people thinking of having their roofs waterproofed—especially by people who have come to their doors—get waterproofing estimates from at least two or three companies and, perhaps, check with the bureau.

WOOD COMPLAINTS

Mr. Tindall said a number of calls have been received from people who feel they have been delivered less—or poorer—firewood than they

At a recent meeting of the fledgling bureau's directors 42 firms were admitted as members, he said. About 100 other interested firms have application forms.

GOOD RESPONSE

He said he has had encouraging response in correspondence with up-Island chambers of commerce. He plans to send a man to Nanaimo "as soon as possible" to solicit membership in the bureau and he plans to open a Nanaimo branch office when activity warrants it.

Mr. Tindall said he has been informed that the Canadian Better Business Bureau has approved the application for membership of the Island bureau and has forwarded it for approval to the U.S. National Better Business Bureau, to which the Canadian bureau belongs.

the Young Building as the old building.

QUICK TRIP: Mayor Dick Wilson and wife, Elizabeth, are packing for a hurried trip to Europe and hope to get to Norway to see the rehabilitation scheme city council is using as a basis for Victoria. They plan to leave next weekend and get back in time for the mayor to attend a meeting of the executive of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities in Montreal Nov. 12 and 13.

SEAT BELTS: With all the local interest in seat belts, thanks to some fine work by local car clubs, it's interesting to hear that all U.S. armed forces vehicles, including buses, are fitted with them. One reader who travelled in a U.S. Air Force bus recently neglected to fasten his seat belt and was politely told by the driver that they wouldn't be going anywhere until he did it up.

HOT SPOT: B.C. Government Travel Bureau officials are wondering if they have overdone the bit about the warm weather Victoria enjoys.

The other day they got the following letter from an American lass: "I am majoring in elementary education at Pennsylvania State University and have been assigned a unit on animals of the tropics. I would appreciate it if you would send me any information or pictures you have on this subject."

INSULTS OLD SALT:

We've often thought city hall was in need of a good public relations department but now we're sure. Victoria's Thermopylae Club recently donated a bronze plaque to the "Parade of Ships" along the Causeway wall and needless to say, the ship the club chose to honor was the old windjammer, Thermopylae. City engineer Jim Garrett's department is stalling the plaques for the sake of uniformity and this week the club got the bill. It read "Erecting plaque of Cutty Sark on Causeway, $9."

Duncan Anglers Reject Plan for Fly Fishermen

DUNCAN — A suggestion from the department of recreation and conservation to permit only fly fishing in the upper regions of the Cowichan River was unanimously rejected by members of the Cowichan Fish and Game Association at their last meeting. They felt the majority is bait fishing and it would not be fair to cater only to the smaller group of fly fishermen.

Development of the young anglers' paradise at Summit Lake will probably take five years to complete but in the meantime youngsters have already caught fish up to 18 inches in length.

Arnie Williams, the association's secretary, said the lake's development is done entirely by volunteer labor, with occasional donations of material and machinery but his group is prepared to spend as much as $500 in the five-year period.

PICNIC SITE

Future plans also include a picnic site with open fireplaces, a graded footpath around the lake, dredging and installation of a second overflow to lower the water level. Eventually a water line will supply the picnic site with water from a mountain spring. Mr. Williams said the lake will be restocked with rainbow trout next year and provisions will be made for spawning beds in the creek. Except for rowboats no vessel will be allowed on Summit Lake and the maximum age limit for young fishermen is 14.

Members of the association are very concerned about "irresponsible hunters" who have killed a number of does and fawns.

"Their behavior is not only harmful to the wildlife but very unfair to the majority of sportsmen who observe all rules," Mr. Williams said.

Up-Island Horsemen Planning Gymkhana

PARKSVILLE — A gymkhana will be held by the Silver Spur Horse and Riding Association Sunday at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Russell, Quakam Beach.

Mr. Russell was named program chairman for the gymkhana, which will include 11 competitive events. The club member with the highest aggregate points for the day will receive the W. and L. Banks Challenge Trophy.

NANAIMO — Annual meeting of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers Association will be held at the Canadian Legion, Wallace Street, at 2 p.m. Oct. 26. A report on the CPR, the E & N Railway and steamship services will be presented. Resolutions are invited on hospital and school finances and matters concerning taxation, with special reference to new taxes, such as the tax on timber, will be considered.

NANAIMO — First concert in the Nanaimo Overture Concert Association series will feature, on Nov. 24, the two-piano team of Stecher and Horowitz. While the association hopes to present at least four concerts this season, only one other event has been booked — the Spanish dance team of Susana and Jose, in March.

DUNCAN — Following a request from the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce an additional name will be added to the road sign at the intersection of Somers and Lake Cowichan roads. Residents from Honeycomb Bay recently approached the chamber to have their community's name added. The sign now bears the names of Mesachie Lake, Youbou and Lake Cowichan.

NANAIMO — A large part of the local potato crop has now been abandoned, and the growers face disastrous losses. One grower stated he will lose $25,000 in actual cash invested in this season's operations and may have to abandon growing.

LADYSMITH — Two Nanaimo residents were convicted in police court on having violated the Government Liquor Act. Ronald G. Kulai pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor charge and John McLinchey admitted having consumed liquor in a public place. They were fined $25 each.

DUNCAN — The Duncan Rotary Club will come out in force Sunday for the club's fishing derby in Cowichan Bay, Maple Bay and Sansum Narrows.

ALBERNI — Girl Guide leaders from all over B.C. are meeting here at a training conference, opened in St. Andrews Church Hall by Provincial Commissioner Mrs. Roy Holmes Miss Amy Leigh of the provincial executive committee gave the key address Friday evening.

DUNCAN — For the casting of The Merry Widow, to be performed early next year, the Duncan Musical Club needs more principals, chorus members and can-can dancers. Interested persons may attend the regular weekly meetings

PORT ALBERNI — A $300 fine was imposed on Buck Pang Wong of this city who pleaded guilty before Magistrate W. E. MacLeod Friday on a bootlegging charge. Court was told Wong had sold a 13-ounce bottle of rye to an RCMP officer in plain clothes. A search of his rooms resulted in the seizure of four more bottles of whisky and a case of beer.

PORT ALBERNI — Edmund Bloom of Richmond was fined $50 when he pleaded guilty to gillnetting with an overlength net in Trevor Channel of Barkley Sound.

Fisheries Officer James Connor told Magistrate W. E. MacLeod that Bloom's net had been measured and found to be 19 fathoms over the 200 fathoms permissible. The extra fathomage was forfeited.

Bloom told the magistrate his net had been damaged by a steamboat running over it and he had failed to check the length following repairs.

Around the Island

Born in the United States in 1884, Mr. Gilbert had followed the blacksmithing trade here. He made his home at 390 Margaret Street, Alberni. He was a member of Barclay Lodge, AF & AM, and a life member of Greenwood Lodge.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. today in Stevens funeral home.

PARKSVILLE — Harvest Thanksgiving services will be held at St. Edmund's Anglican Church in Parksville on Sunday, At 11 a.m. the service will be conducted by Canon Leslie L. Grant and at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Dr. Norman D. B. Larmonth of Vancouver will preach at evensong.

DUNCAN — The first of five public lectures in conjunction with the adult education program in the Cowichan district will be held next Wednesday at the Cowichan senior secondary school at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. I. D. Pal of Victoria University will speak on Canada and the Common Market.

Ship, Skipper Fined In Cigarette Seizure

CHEMAINUS — A fine of $50 has been levied here against the Greek freighter Demoches for a seizure made under the Customs Act. The ship's master, Angelos Klourtsidakis, was fined $50 for importing undeclared goods. In both cases the plea was guilty.

Police said the charge followed a search of the vessel. The undeclared goods, cigarettes, were confiscated.

Jail Term for Fraud

NANAIMO — Garry Ivan Sorley was sentenced Friday by Magistrate Lionel Beevor Potts to one year definite and one year indefinite after having been convicted on two charges of fraud involving $119.

Sorley obtained the money by cashing a worthless cheque for $95 at Simpson-Sears on Sept. 17. He had also negotiated on Sept. 11, on a forged endorsement, a social assistance cheque, payable to another person.

The magistrate remarked, somewhat caustically: "It seems that it is easier for a stranger to cash a cheque here than it is for local residents."

Edward Joseph Seymour, of the Chemainus Indian Reserve, appeared Friday for sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of creating a public mischief.

Seymour had reported to police that his automobile had been stolen, when it had not. He was given 18 months' suspended sentence.

FINED $100

George Allan Rodgers of Wellington pleaded guilty to common assault and was fined $100 by the magistrate, who noted that he might have faced a much more serious charge.

Firm Faces Injunction On Designs

NANAIMO — The Architectural Institute of B.C. has issued a writ against Lionel Francour and Francour Construction Co. Ltd. for allegedly practising architecture contrary to the Architects' Profession Act.

The institute also seeks an injunction to prevent further alleged violations.

The act requires employment of an architect in the design of any structure containing five or more dwelling units, a residence worth $25,000 or more, or commercial or industrial construction exceeding 5,000 square feet.

The writ says the company has designed several apartment buildings, including one valued at almost $300,000.

DUNCAN — In police court here Larry Dove, Esquimalt, admitting being a minor in possession, was fined $20; David C. Mayea, Duncan, for driving while under suspension and without insurance was fined $75 and $15 respectively.
